

FALL'S HASTE AND SECRECY IN OIL DEALS DESCRIBED

Secretary Acted Without His Advice, Assistant Testifies in Suit to End Doheny Leases.

SUGGESTED DENBY 'GIVE OUT NOTHING'

Fall Desired to Wind Up Elk Hills Contract Simultaneously With Teapot Dome Leases.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 28.—That Albert B. Fall, as Secretary of the Interior, acted alone and without the customary advice of his first assistant, Edward C. Finney, First Assistant Secretary of the Interior Department, in the making of the Teapot Dome-Sinclair naval oil lease, the Elk Hills Pan-American naval oil lease, which the Government charged were issued in a conspiracy to defraud, was testified to today by Finney, in the United States District Court.

The resumption of the trial of the Government suit to cancel the $100,000,000 leases and contracts to the Edward L. Doheny concern, accused by the Government of giving $100,000 to Fall, today led direct to the work in the Interior Department concerning these leases.

Owen J. Roberts, Government counsel, questioned Finney to show that Fall acted unusually, independently and alone in negotiation of these leases. He asked Finney whether or not he knew generally or participated in preparation of contracts previous to December 11, 1922, when the Pan-American supplemental contract on Elk Hills and Pearl Harbor development work was let.

"The only lease I know of which I did not participate in was the Sinclair lease in Wyoming," Finney testified, referring to the Teapot Dome lease which is subject of another Government suit for cancellation.

"Did you have anything to do with the leases of December 11, 1922?" Roberts questioned, referring to the Pan-American lease. "None whatever," the First Assistant Secretary of the Navy, in which Fall said, "I have instructed my office to give out nothing regarding these contracts."

Fall ordered secrecy in his department and in an indirect manner suggested to the Navy Department that publicity be given relative to the granting of naval oil leases, according to testimony and documentary evidence submitted. The Government sought to show that Fall was impatient over delays incurred in closing the contract for the construction of the proposed Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, fuel oil storage base, and that protests were made that bids for the construction of storage facilities had not been publicly advertised.

Communications Presented.

Most of the prosecution's points were brought out through the presentation in evidence of more than a score of letters, telegrams and communications identified by Finney.

A memorandum from Fall to his department ordered that "details of any plans, agreements, leases or any oil reserves shall not be given out" was entered in evidence by Roberts, and, upon questioning, Finney testified that just previous to Fall's departure for New Mexico, in April, 1922, "Mr. Fall said that he did not desire that information be given out regarding the Mammoth Oil Co. until the Pearl Harbor deal was closed."

Unusual About Legality.

In an attempt to show Fall's uncertainty in connection with the legality of proposed exchange of royalty crude oil for storage facilities, the Government entered in evidence a letter of April 12, 1922, from Fall to Denby, in which was suggested an amendment to the congressional act of June 4, 1920, whereby the Navy Department could exchange royalty crude oil for fuel oil and storage facilities or sell the royalty crude accruing to the Government. Roberts stressed the notation on the letter from Fall which said, "I will leave to your own judgment the amount of publicity you care to give this matter."

During a conference, Finney indicated he seemed impatient over the delay in the Pearl Harbor project.

"Did you have any discussions with him before he left concerning the Pearl Harbor matter?" Roberts asked. "Yes, he asked Dr. Foster Bain, chief of the Bureau of Mines, and myself how the Pearl Harbor project was coming along," Finney answered.

Further comment, Finney testified that he said he desired to close the Sinclair matter and the Pearl Harbor storage base as soon as possible and seemed impatient at the delay caused by the changing of the specifications and that he desired to close before he left.

Private Bills Not Asked.

Protests from the Chicago Bridge and Iron Works that bills for the construction work on the Pearl Harbor storage base were not publicly advertised also were defeated by Finney and entered in evidence by the Government. A number of telegrams from the Chicago companies asked for specification of bidding and Fall's letter to the conservative association seem to have had copies of it at the same time as the Foreign Office.

Foreign Office officials by tradition never engage in political quarrels and they are silent.

ZR-3 FLYER, HERE, SAYS U. S. LEADS IN RIGID AIRSHIPS

Commander J. H. Klein, Observer on Recent Transatlantic Flight, Tells of His Experiences.

Commander Jacob H. Klein, U. S. N., in charge of the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., in a Navy air attaché at the Chamber of Commerce last night declared that America now leads the world in one fighting arm—that of rigid airships—but that the United States Navy as a whole is being maintained on a 5-4-3 ratio.

"One capital battleship would restore the balance," he told his audience, gathered under the auspices of the Military Order of the World War, "and that's what the American navy must have. It is true, also, that we are short of cruisers and short of aircraft carriers, but worst of all we are short of personnel. Let me urge you here in the Middle West that your voice is to be counted behind a navy second to none. For there is another war coming, and don't let a bunch of pacifists fool you."

Observed in ZR-3 Flight.

Commander Klein, a graduate of the Naval Academy '07 at the age of 20, spoke not only under the permissive authority of the Navy Department, but also as a naval officer experienced in all branches of the service, including the submarine, the aviator, the executive officer of the Shenandoah and as executive officer and the navy's observer in the recent flight of the ZR-3 from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst.

"As you know, this day is the birthday of that great American, Theodore Roosevelt, the founder of our modern navy," he recounted. "He had the splendid vision, the energy and spirit to foresee what the navy meant to the country. He never failed to follow up the navy. I am not a dare-devil ace nor a crack flyer; I am just a plain naval officer. But let me tell you, with all the emphasis I can, that the jingo who tells you that the fleet is obsolete doesn't know what he is talking about."

"The world without aerodynamics is useless." In 1915 France will have 200 planes. Great Britain 1900 and we, if we are lucky, will have 600. But the tragedy is that you and I are getting old, and there is nobody to take our place. Above all, let us have more flyers. Of 41 world air records, our army and navy hold 43. Let us sustain that record."

History of the Three ZRs.

The speaker then related the history of the three ZRs—the Shenandoah, the first, which recently completed its 9000-mile voyage across the country and back; the tragic fate of the second, "which my good friend and fellow officer and 49 of his mates gave up their lives"; and, finally, the Akron, which was lost to Lakehurst last week.

"We took off on Sunday, from Friedrichshafen, in the dense fog, while 5000 Germans cheered and sang the national anthem. In a few minutes we popped through the fog into a brilliant sunlight, and shortly were headed, at a speed of 60 to 70 knots, for Basle. We were four Americans aboard—Capt. Steel, Lieutenant-Commander Krauss, Maj. Kennedy and myself—and we were passengers in every sense, letting the Germans run the show."

"We passed over France today, in the morning and shortly reached the Bay of Biscay, which I had crossed many times in destroyers. Then we reached Spain and it was hotter than blazes. We slept a hot, uncomfortable night, but enjoyed a real sight next morning when we reached the Azores. I shall never forget the sight in passing one of the extinct volcanoes, of Portuguese farmers at work in their fields inside the crater."

BUILDER OF ZR-3 Says He Hopes to Visit St. Louis.

The message was in response to one sent by Carter, congratulating Dr. Eckener on the successful flight and extending him an invitation to visit St. Louis during his stay in this country.

HALLIDAY'S CREDIBILITY AS WITNESS TO BE ATTACKED
Convicted Broker, in City Sanitarium, to Go on Trial as Witness Against Colbeck.

The credibility of George V. Halliday, former broker, now a City Sanitarium patient, as a witness, is to be attacked in the Federal Court when he appears against "Dinty" Colbeck and four others accused of complicity in the $26,000 robbery of an armored mail truck at Fourth and Locust streets, April 2, 1923. The case is to go to trial tomorrow.

An order for the sanitarian record of Halliday was issued by Judge Paris today, on the motion of James E. Carroll, attorney for Colbeck and the others.

Halliday is under two penitentiary sentences, with a total of seven years' imprisonment assessed against him. Colbeck is Fifth Ward Democratic Committeeman and political leader of the Egan Gang.

Halliday has been convicted of embezzlement, in his brokerage business, and of attempted forgery of interim certificates for French Government bonds. He was at liberty on appeal bonds following these convictions, when he was arrested in Chicago last March on a charge of defrauding a taxi cab driver of $40. This started an inquiry which led to his arrest in the mail robbery case, on a charge of being connected with the disposal of securities taken in the robbery. It has been understood that the Government would use him as a witness.

Joseph Council, a resident of St. Louis County, was arrested today by Post Office Inspectors Noah and Burns, charged with withholding information concerning the whereabouts of some of the stolen securities. He is being held at the United States Marshal's office under $10,000 bond.

Woman Robbed of $5 in Home.
Five dollars was secured by a robber who knocked at the door of the residence of Mrs. Effie Durand, 1007 North Fourteenth street, at 10 p.m. yesterday, and at revolver's point forced his way into the home. He didn't come.

suggested the double pogram yesterday. Untermyer will take the Chicago end of it and Walsh will stay here.

Guy Emerson, vice president of the Bankers' Trust Co., and chairman of the main "Contributors Committee" for the Republicans under which sub-committees operate for every trade and profession and in most of the States, was grilled for four long hours. But neither Untermyer nor Walsh could run down details of the alleged "slush" fund from him.

Under the examination of Walsh Emerson went into rather minute details of how the collection committees were organized and how they operated, and also as to sum received. Taking over the examination, Untermyer called attention to the fact that there was no committee for the steel, oil and sugar trades, and said that what he wanted to know was why there was no organized effort to collect from the "protected" industries.

Emerson said there was a committee for the sugar trade, under the title of "Foodstuff," and that efforts had been made to organize in the steel industry, but without any success. The New York banker insisted that there had been no "concealment" of contributions.

SON NOT LIKELY TO ATTEND RITES

Stricken Three Days Before Killing, Millionaire Had Not Seen Confessed Slayer Since Arrest.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Albert Henry Loeb, first vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., father of Richard Loeb, co-murderer with Nathan Leopold Jr. of Robert Frank, died at his home here last night after a long illness.

Members of the family and physicians said his death was not hastened by the trial and conviction of his son, now serving a life sentence in Joliet penitentiary. Whether the son would attend the funeral was considered doubtful, although the prison authorities have granted permission to attend funerals of near relatives. The crowds of curious that would gather made likely no application for a permit would be made.

Mr. Loeb last saw his son May 23, when he was arrested at the Loeb home. The father was stricken with a heart attack three days before the killing. During the trial, Mr. Loeb was taken in the family's summer home at Charlevoix, Mich., where he remained until a fortnight ago.

Loeb began his connection with the mail order firm in 1901, as secretary, and later became vice president and treasurer. He was credited with devising many of the intricate systems now in general use in the business—whereby orders were classified, filled and dispatched in minimum time.

He was 56 years old and was born in Rockford, Ill. He taught himself the business funds to attend law school and was admitted to the bar in 1899, but practiced only a few years.

His widow, four sons and three brothers, one of them Jacob Loeb, former president of the Chicago Board of Education, survive him. Uncle Jerome Richard at Prison of Father's Death.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 28.—Richard Loeb will not attend the funeral of his father, A. E. Loeb, who died yesterday in Chicago, Jacob Loeb, his uncle, announced today, during a visit at the State prison here.

Loeb visited Richard and broke the news of his father's death. He said no request would be made to have the young man released from prison to attend the funeral.

POLICEMAN FINDS "BEAT" QUIET UNTIL HE WALKS IN ON STILL

Officer Looking for Law Violators Forced to Subdue Dogs and Gets Moonshine Outfit.

Patrolman William Kraeger found everything quiet—too quiet—on the streets of his beat, so he walked through an alley at 1 a.m. Then things happened.

The door of a garage in the rear of 1224 South Broadway was open, exposing a Ford to view and possible theft. Kraeger started toward the residence in front to notify the car's owner. Two shepherd dogs in the intervening yard leaped at him. He fired one shot to scare them, and when this failed, wielded his nightstick.

Leaving the subdued dogs behind, he entered the building. No body on the first floor, nobody on the second floor. Nobody on the third floor, but two large stills and quantities of mash and other moonshining supplies. The stills, each having a daily capacity of about 100 gallons, were set up and ready for operation.

Police learned the Ford in the garage belonged to Jim Cappitano, who conducts a restaurant at 1445 Chestnut Avenue. Cappitano formerly had a candy store on the first floor of the building and resided on the second floor, but a few weeks ago he moved away. As for the third floor, he never had anything to do with it and had never seen the stills, so he declared. He is held.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS TESSMER RELEASED ON BOND

Amount of Security for Alleged St. Louis Slasher Is Fixed

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 28.—The Supreme Court on this afternoon granted a writ of habeas corpus for the release on bond of Ben Tessmer, awaiting trial in St. Louis on a charge of first degree murder.

Bond was fixed at $15,000, the securities obtained on the bond to be approved by Circuit Judge Itner of St. Louis, and certified to the Supreme Court.

In a hearing held here on the application for the writ, it was admitted by counsel for the State that the evidence against Tessmer was not such that he should be held without bond. Tessmer was indicted

15 Tablespoons of Soot Inhaled in Last Five Days by Every St. Louisan

Tests Made by Smoke Detector Show Even Those Who Remained Indoors Got Their Full Share.

During the last five days, when the city was enveloped in an unusually persistent fog of smoke that kept throats smarting and burning, the average St. Louisian living in the average residential district was breathing a little more than four grams, or roughly about three large table-spoonsful, of soot every 24 hours. He did that even if he remained at home and shut himself indoors. If he spent part of the day outside or in some downtown office, where the smoky air yesterday gave every room an appearance of being on fire, he breathed a good deal more than that.

These facts regarding human consumption of smoke are available as the result of records made by an ingenious device for smoke detection now in use at the Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) Garden. It is said to be the only machine of its kind in the United States and one of three known to be in existence. Dr. George T. Moore, director of the garden, acquired it a little more than a year ago from an English scientist to measure the smoke content of the air in the greenhouses and study the effects on delicate plants.

Device Extracts Soot.
It has been in operation constantly and, according to Dr. Moore, with highly satisfactory results. Every 15 minutes throughout the day and night it automatically extracts the smoke, or soot, from two yards of air and leaves the back residue on a disc of filter paper where the scientist may measure it and draw inferences at his leisure.

As the smoke spots are durably fixed upon the filter chart, the disc may be filed away for future reference, thus making possible comparisons from time to time of the city's actual smokiness. Its reading at 15-minute intervals also enables the observer to determine the chief sources of smoke, and it may be said here that the clouds of soot, which are now threatening delicate plants and flowers and force the removal of Shaw's Garden to the country, are traceable, not to the factories and locomotives, but to the apartment houses and residences in the district.

Probably the most impressive feature of this unfamiliar device is its simplicity. A Post-Dispatch reporter, who went to the Garden yesterday to see the apparatus in operation, was vaguely unable to see an intricate machine with weird hair-weight balances, delicate needles and chisel-like indecipherable to the untrained eye. Instead, he saw a tripod about three feet high an oblong metal box that, except for the fact that it was not quite round, suggested a cheese box. Beneath it was a metal tank of about 1000 cubic feet capacity to which were attached a water pipe and a rubber tube.

How Device Operates.
Upon being opened, the box revealed what appeared to be a brass cylinder, three inches in diameter, superimposed above a disc-shaped

EXTERIOR and interior views of the smoke detector at Shaw's Garden and a chart with a day's record of 48 readings. On the dial appear dark spots, each of which represents the amount of soot in approximately one cubic foot of air at the time the chart was taken. chart of filter paper which more numbers around its rim representing numbers around its rim representing each hour in the day. In each interval between the numbers are four dark spots, blackest at the hours of 9 and 10 and gradually becoming lighter as the day advances to mid-afternoon. Another spot was being formed, the reporter was told, where a small metal tube pressed downward against the paper at the end of the series.

The most complex mechanism connected with the apparatus was a clock, contained in the metal cylinder, which timed the automatic operation of the machine. Like an alarm clock, it may be set to take readings at any interval desired, but yesterday was operating at 15-minute intervals. Every quarter of the hour the half-gallon tank beneath the apparatus automatically fills with water, excluding all air. When it is filled, the water is automatically released through the tube in the bottom and an inverted saucer or partial vacuum is formed in the tank above it. This vacuum is filled by air, which, in entering the tank, comes through a small tube fitted close against the filter paper. The spot is thus strained out by the paper and the resultant spot shows the amount of soot in two quarts of air.

Readings Taken in Greenhouse.
From this basis of measurement the operator of the device is able to make calculations for larger quantities of air. The average person inhales about a cubic meter of air a minute. With the atmosphere like it was yesterday he would have inhaled 3.2 milligrams of fine soot along with it. And this does not take into account the number of soot particles which are too small to be separately visible to the naked eye.

Dr. Moore does not attempt to interpret the effect of soot upon the public health, but he does state that it threatens to exterminate virtually all the delicate plants at the garden and makes removal of the collection to the country imperative.

Factories Not Responsible.

A walk through the greenhouses was enough to reveal the havoc being wrought. The tables upon which stood jars of plants were literally covered with yellow leaves. Orchid blooms, which opened in the morning and dried and dying. Chrysanthemum blooms, which should have been white or pink, were dark and dingy. Large green leaves of many plants were so laden with soot that it was possible to write upon them as one might write on a dusty window pane. The devastation, Dr. Moore explained, is due chiefly to the sulphur dioxide content of the smoke which, in taking up moisture on the plants, forms sulphurous acid.

Dr. Moore was unable to say when the Garden would be moved or where its future location would be. "We are looking for a site at least 25 miles out of the city and we are looking now for a suitable tract of about 1000 acres. There we will grow the plants and then bring them here to die at public exhibitions. Contrary to public opinion, it is not the factories and locomotives which are chiefly responsible for the smoke in this section of the city. The smoke detector shows that the condition is as bad on Sundays as it is on other days."

Charles H. Kollmeyer, a former Deputy Internal Revenue Collector, was sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Paris today on his plea of guilty to a charge of impersonating a Federal employee and obtaining money under false pretense.

Kollmeyer was arrested Feb. 5 last, when Federal agents discovered he was soliciting advertising and subscriptions for a directory of Federal employees, a project of the National Federation of Employees' Associations, which had been abandoned two years before. He admitted getting about $100 in this manner. Kollmeyer had been dismissed from the Federal service six months before.

MAN AND WIFE HELD FOR RONDOUT MAIL ROBBERY

WANTS INQUIRY INTO COURTHOUSE SITE POSTERS

Brent Glasscock, Arrested at Battle Creek, Mich., Alleged Leader in $2,000-000 Holdup.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Oct. 28.—Brent Glasscock, alias Brent Howard, and his wife, Avis, who have been popular members of the social set at the Battle Creek sanitarium since their arrival here three weeks ago, are held today by Federal officials, the man as the leader of the six principals in the Rondout, Ill., $2,000,000 mail robbery.

Mrs. Lytle, driving with one hand and breaking fruit jars said to have contained corn liquor with the other, did not reply to the fire during the wild flight through the woods of Fayette.

When disarmed by Sheriff O. N. Chipley, the young woman cried: "I'm not the guilty one, Mr. Chipley." Then she fell into silence and refused to reveal her name.

The Glasscocks were arrested last night in the fashionable West End home where they had taken a suit when Glasscock came here to take treatments at the sanitarium. Acting on a "tip" from post-office inspectors, police confronted the couple in their suite with post-office circulars advertising a reward for their arrest. Glasscock and his wife then surrendered and admitted their identity, according to police.

Mrs. Glasscock had a sumptuous wardrobe, appraised by police at $10,000, in the suite. She was wearing at least $25,000 worth of jewelry and in possession of about $4,000 in currency and a sack of unset diamonds, police said. Its value has not been estimated.

Since coming to Battle Creek, the couple had entered into the social affairs of the city, gaining entrance through the coterie at the Sanitarium where social leaders from many cities gather. They said they had returned only recently from a honeymoon in Canada. Glasscock is about 48 and his wife about 35.

Glasscock's arrest completes the roundup of suspects in connection with the daring robbery of a Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul train last June, in which $2,000,000 was taken by the robbers. The other five are in cells in Chicago, in default of $100,000 bail each.

Scheduled to Go to Trial Chicago Nov. 5.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Brent Glasscock, under indictment here in connection with the Rondout, Ill., $2,000,000 mail train robbery, and arrest in Battle Creek, Mich., is scheduled to go to trial with eight others, Nov. 5. He is charged with conspiracy and robbery with a dangerous weapon, and is alleged to have conspired with William Fahy, former postoffice inspector, and others, in plotting the robbery and to have participated in it.

After his indictment a reward of $2000 for the capture of Glasscock "dead or alive," was issued by postoffice authorities.

"The Board of Aldermen under those circumstances would possibly feel that an effort should be made to utilize the site of the present courthouse in order to expedite the construction of the building, which while the mall cars were being affected.

The second suit is for condemnation of property to provide for the widening of St. Louis avenue between Grand boulevard and Kienlen avenue. Both suits ask for the appointment of commissioners to fix the valuation of the affected property.

ESTIMATES AS TO COST.

"Estimates of architects to a committee of Circuit Judges placed the cost of the new courthouse building alone at the full amount of the $4,000,000 bond issue, so that another bond issue would be necessary if we have to buy another block in which to erect the building.

"It is estimated that under condemnation proceedings the block just south of the present courthouse, which has been proposed as a courthouse site, would cost $1,500,000.

A new Undersuit

IT'S one of the best Mérôde fabrics—and deservedly one of the most popular—Barbara 525. The very purest combed cotton has been selected and knitted into a medium weight, elastic-fitting fabric. Given such a fabric, you also have band-tailoring. Each garment is cut according to an individual pattern—accounting for the consistent satisfaction in Mérôde fit.

There are a number of different styles in Barbara which you should ask to see. We think you will like the garment illustrated. It is known as U/7—which means a sleeveless undersuit, with neck cut low and knee length leg.

This is the time to buy Mérôde. Fine values at the representative shops during Mérôde Week.

DAMAGES FIXED FOR KINGSHIGHWAY WORK AT $442,153

Commissioners' Total Is Four Times the Estimate of City Plan Body for Extension Northwest.

8000 PIECES OF LAND AFFECTED

Assessment Varies From 25 Cents to $10 a Front Foot Along Boulevard, 3½ Miles Long.

Damages arising from the proposed construction of Kingshighway Northwest are fixed by the commissioners, in their report yesterday, at $442,153.55, more than four times the estimate of the City Plan Commission, which named $120,000 as the probable amount. Of the assessment, $437,738.45 is against the property owners of the benefit area. The remainder, $4418.11, is against the city at large. It is stated at the office of the City Counselor that this is the largest private property assessment in the history of the department.

The assessment varies according to location from 25 cents to $10 a front foot but the average is less than $5 a front foot.

Before the report is filed in court property owners will have a chance to file exceptions.

Part of Major Plan.

The boulevard is part of the City Plan Commission's program for major streets. It is three and one-half miles long, extending from the present construction at Persone and Birch streets, west to Thrush avenue, curving northwest to Partridge avenue, passing west of Calvary Cemetery into Tracy road, thence to Hall's Ferry road and northeast to Broadway at River-view drive.

There is to be a 75-foot roadway with a park space of 25 feet throughout the course.

There are 8000 parcels of land affected by the assessment of damages. The memorandum covers 536 pages.

Boundaries of Area.

The boundaries of the benefit area are: Beginning at the west line of the city limits and Wells avenue, east on Wells to Kingshighway, in a prolonged line to Marcus avenue, north to St. Louis avenue, east to Pope avenue, east on a prolonged straight line to Hall street, north along the waterworks conduit to 150 feet south of Baden avenue, east to the Mississippi River, north to the city limits and west and south to point of beginning.

The commissioners were Charles F. Meier, real estate dealer; Edward T. Bertram, clerk, and Harry Feierbaum, attorney. Only Meier and Bertram signed the report. Feierbaum disagreeing with some of the assessments.

OWEN D. YOUNG CABLES HIS INDORSEMENT OF DAVIS

"Every Democrat Should Be Proud to Support His Ticket," Says Head of Reparations Body.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 28.—The following has been issued from the New York headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. A radiogram from Owen D. Young, who is still in Europe overseeing the preliminary organization of the machinery of the reparations agreement has been received by Norman H. Davis in New York. The radiogram follows:

"I should be glad to do anything that would help John W. Davis, for whom I have the greatest admiration. I have no objection to your publishing as news that I am a Democrat and that in my opinion with such a candidate as John W. Davis every Democrat should be proud to support his ticket."

In reiterating this message for publication Norman H. Davis said:

"It is especially significant that Mr. Young comes out with this strong endorsement of our candidate, as you will recall Gen. Davis described Mr. Young as 'the constructive brains' of the 'Experts' Committee which drew up the reparations plan now being put into operation. No one has had a better opportunity than Owen Young to study the present conditions of Europe or the foreign policy of America under the Republican administration. In spite of this intimate knowledge of the problem or perhaps because of it Mr. Young comes out emphatically for John W. Davis."

Driver Reports $50 Holding.

Two men boarded a wagon of the Pevely Dairy Co. in Forest Park, near Oakland avenue and the city greenhouses, yesterday afternoon, and robbed William Cerone, the driver, of $50, he reported to police.

WORLD PEACE GERMAN AIM, MARX DECLARES

Chancellor Expresses Hope of new Conferences, if Dawes Plan is Unworkable.

By SAMUEL SPEWACK,
The Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch and the New York World.
October 28, 1924.

BERLIN, Oct. 28.—Chancellor

Brüning, addressing the Catholic party on the opening of the German elections campaign, yesterday explained hope that the allies will enter into further conference if the new plan proves too burdensome

Germany. Before Germany can be a potential factor for peace, he said, in effect, must emerge as a free nation of reparations. Germany, he added, had been disarmed and is up to the allies to allow the re-establishment of Geneva and assure world peace. Germany is ready to cooperate.

Germany Must Have Colonies,
He added that free Germany must have colonies, so she can have raw materials and markets.
Government has sought to absorb the country of sole responsibility for the war solely for moral but, he added, not because she wants to evade the obligations of Versailles treaty.

The Chancellor's remarks about monarchs show the confused state of the country on this question. "We demand of every member of the Catholic party that he place himself on the foundation of the German Constitution."

He does not wish to bring pressure bear on his conscience. If any believes the monarchical form of government is the state of the nation, he must not be regarded as a faithful member of the party.
He is in duty bound to recognize the Constitution."

Reactionaries Lose at Hamburg.

The Chancellor's speech synchronized with announcement of the Hamburg election, taken as an indication of the national election results. The reactionary German National party and extreme reactionary popular party lost 25 and over 25 per cent of their strength. The communists lost 25 per cent and Socialists, Centrists and Democrats made the gains.

This indicates a Moderate majority in the next Reichstag, although a vote is taken in an industrial community, while the German National strength lies in the rural districts.

15,000 RAIL CLERKS
HERE AWAIT RULING

Application for Increased Wages Now Pending Before U. S. Labor Board.

Approximately 15,000 railroad clerks in St. Louis and adjoining territory are awaiting with interest the ruling of the United States Railroad Labor Board, sitting at Chicago, on an application for increased wages.

The scale requested by the officials of the Brotherhood of Railroad and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees, when they laid their case before the board early this month, would restore the wages to the post-war peak which prevailed during the year beginning May, 1920, an average of $5.12 a day, or $156.72 a year. The prevailing average is $4.69 a day, or $148.54 a year.

While but 58 railroads are named in the wage petition, union leaders expect that all roads will adjust the compensation of their employees in line with the board's decision, which is expected within the next week or two.

Accepted Two Reductions.

Since the wage adjustment of May, 1920, the clerks have accepted two reductions, in July, 1921, to an average of $4.61 a day, and in July, 1922, to $4.37. In July, 1923, the average was again increased to $4.69 a day, and in the present case, according to a local union official, the argument is that the roads have passed a period of depression and can afford to pay the old high rate.

The union official argues that an average wage of at least $2000 is necessary to provide the barest essentials of a decent living for a family of five in America. Before the Labor Board, E. H. Fitzgerald, grand president of the clerks' union, read a lengthy report, in which was embodied the average expenditures of 12,000 American families.

Fitzgerald's statistics show that the average $1500-a-year man spends $67 a year for clothing, while his wife spend $58.

"The man who cannot afford fine clothes will build up a defensive attitude, making fun of 'dudes' and expressing a liking for rough attire," he said. "But women as a rule cannot develop such a protection against the feeling of inferiority when ill-dressed."

"Almost No Safety."

"Silk stockings are almost a necessity to a happy woman," he declared, and fixed the average annual expenditure for silk at $6.25 in the family of the $1500-a-year man. "Only one-fourth of the families in this group indulge in the pleasure of silk stockings, and the average wife stands to get three new pair every five years," he said.

The Clerks' Union includes in its membership not only all classes of office employees, but also baggage handlers, mechanical device operators, messengers, telephone operators, station laborers and some others. In February, 1924, the Labor Board issued a statement, listing under "Clerical and Station Forces," a total of 260,284 clerks receiving an average of $4.69 a day, as well as 22,982 baggage handlers, averaging $4.45; 22,982 mechanical device operators, $3.50, and 73,952 messengers, laborers, telephone operators and truckers, ranging from $2.90 to $3.15 a day; in all, 324,413 employees averaging $4.45 a day.

BODY OF POPE LEO XIII RESTS IN BASILICA OF ST. JOHN

Solemn But Simple Ceremonies
Mark Entombment Into Niche
in Wall of the Nave.

By the Associated Press.
ROME, Oct. 28.—The body of Pope Leo XIII today repose in its final resting place. The ceremonies of entombment took place yesterday in the Basilica of St. John Lateran and were carried out with solemnity but with simplicity.

The service was performed for the first time outside the Vatican since 1870. Cardinal Pompili, acting both in the capacity of an archpriest, of St. John and Papal Vicar-General, officiated.

After the requiem mass, attended by most of the members of the Sacred College of Rome, workmen placed Pope Leo's casket into a niche in the wall of the nave. The coffin bore only a simple inscription in Latin giving the name and the dates of the birth and death. The marble slab covering the aperture to the tomb was inscribed simply with "Leo XIII."

DONLIN SUPPORTS COOLIDGE

Head of Building Trades of A. F. L.

Visits President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 28.—President Coolidge received several visitors yesterday afternoon, including Senator McCormick of Illinois; Attorney-General Stone and John H. Donlin, president of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor.

After his visit with Mr. Coolidge, Donlin declared his support of the President and reported a similar feeling among men of the trade to which he belonged. This business is prospering generally, he told the President, with wages high and employment plentiful despite a slight seasonal depression just now.

TUESDAY
OCTOBER 28, 1924DIGGING-IN BEGINS
IN BATTLE FOR PEKIN

Christian General Prepares to Fight His Former Chieftain, Wu Pei-Fu.

By the Associated Press.
PEKIN, Oct. 28.—The advance troops of Wu Pei-Fu, former commander in chief of the Central Government armies, have arrived at Langfang, half way between Tientsin and Pekin, whether the troops of Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian General," his former lieutenant, now in control of Pekin, are moving. As a result, fighting is imminent there.

Rumors that the two forces have already clashed are groundless, as passengers on the international train, which arrived here last evening from Tientsin, passed the lines and saw the soldiers deliberately digging entrenchments. They were only a few miles apart.

The strength of Wu's army is unknown here. The morale of his men is also a matter of doubt. His detractors declare they entirely lack morale, the bulk of the army still at Shanhaikwan being at the point of a disorganized retreat.

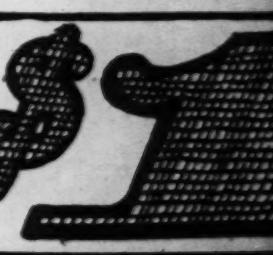

Most of Feng's troops were moved out of Pekin toward Tientsin during the week end.

There is no change in the political status. It is reported that President Tuan Kun desires to retire and would do so if Feng permitted it.

The resignations of the members of the Cabinet are reported to have been accepted and an effort is being made to reorganize it under the premiership of C. T. Wang, but the mandarins have not yet been presented.

Japan Sends Three Companies of Infantry to Tientsin.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Oct. 28.—The War Office has decided to dispatch three companies of infantry from Manchuria to Tientsin to protect Japanese subjects and interests there. This action is taken in view of the possibility of hostilities in the vicinity of Tientsin following arrival there of Wu Pei-Fu, former commander in chief of the Central Government armies, and his defiance of Fong Yu-Hsiang, who controls Pekin.

HANGING HALTED BY
SUPREME COURT WRIT

Evidence Against Slayer of East St. Louis Detective to Be Reviewed.

Preparation for the execution tomorrow at Belleville of Floyd Williams, convicted murderer, was postponed yesterday when a writ of error was served on Sheriff Schnipper, staying the execution until the State Supreme Court can review the evidence in the case. The final death warrant had been signed and the scaffold was being tested when the writ arrived.

Williams, who is 24 years old, was convicted of the murder of City Detective Henry Bodenbeck of East St. Louis last April in the Liberty Candy Kitchen at Fortleth street and Waverly avenue, East St. Louis. Witnesses for the State testified Williams shot Bodenbeck without warning when the officer began to question him about certain burglaries. Williams' defense was that he thought he was about to be held up, as Bodenbeck did not identify himself as a detective.

The petition for the review of the case alleged evidence designed to connect Williams with burglaries was erroneously admitted at the murder trial. The case was tried before Circuit Judge Bernreuter.

A Marvelous Dress Underselling Event

Over 500 Frocks Selected From Our Higher-Priced Groups and Offered for Wednesday ONLY at $33

THE price appeal of this event will first command your attention. It is a price at which you would ordinarily expect to get a very good inexpensive dress. But when it becomes a "sale" price, it is possible for us to give you Dresses that are taken from our Costume Salon for a special sale event.

WHEN you arrive—promptly at 9 if you wish the best selections—the variety of styles will impress you instantly. And the styles will be grouped for your convenience. There will be evening gowns in one group; less formal dinner Dresses in another group; afternoon and street Dresses in still another group; arranged according to sizes to facilitate your selection.

ALL of the newest modes are portrayed; all of the most popular fabrics included. You will doubtless find it difficult to refrain from buying a very great number, as there will be every type of Dress you could possibly need, and there will be all sizes, though not in every style.

What You
May ExpectBy
Shirley Dean

When I came to Sonnenfeld's, not quite two months ago, I knew that one of the most interesting features of my work would be to see the preparations for an unusual sale event, and to have the privilege of telling the public about it.

Today I have had the thrill of seeing a great Dress Sale prepared. It is by far the greatest Dress Sale since I have been here, in the savings that it offers.

One of the buyers took me through the large stocks of the more expensive Dresses, showing me as we went, the different ones that were marked to be included at such very, very great reductions. I couldn't help exclaiming, over and over again, as we went along, "Oh, surely not this one for only $33."

I can't wait until Wednesday arrives, as I have my eye on at least twenty-five or thirty different Dresses that I want someone to get who will appreciate them as much as they would if they could see their original prices.

DIGGING-IN BEGINS IN BATTLE FOR PEKIN

Christian General Prepares to Fight His Former Chieftain, Wu Pei-Fu.

By the Associated Press.
PEKIN, Oct. 28.—The advance troops of Wu Pei-Fu, former commander in chief of the Central Government armies, have arrived at Langfang, half way between Tientsin and Pekin, within the lines of Feng Yu-Hsiang, the "Christian General," his former lieutenant, now in control of Pekin, are moving. As a result, fighting is imminent there.

Rumors that the two forces have already clashed are groundless, as passengers on the international train, which arrived here last evening from Tientsin, passed the lines and saw the soldiers deliberately digging entrenchments. They were only a few miles apart.

The strength of Wu's army is unknown here. The morale of his men is also a matter of doubt. His detractors declare they entirely lack morale, the bulk of the army still at Shanhaikuan being at the point of a disorganized retreat.

Most of Feng's troops were moved out of Pekin toward Tientsin during the week end. There is no change in the political status. It is reported that President Tsao Kun desired to retire and would do so if Feng permitted it.

The resignations of the members of the Cabinet are reported to have been accepted and an effort is being made to reorganize it under the premiership of C. T. Wang, but the mandates have not yet been promulgated.

Japan Sends Three Companies of Infantry to Tientsin.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Oct. 28.—The War Office has decided to dispatch three companies of infantry from Manchuria to Tientsin to protect Japanese subjects and interests there. This action is taken in view of the possibility of hostilities in the vicinity of Tientsin following arrival there of Wu Pei-Fu, former commander in chief of the Central Government armies, and his defiance of Fong Yu-Hsiang, who controls Pekin.

Soviet Official Makes 50 Flights in 100 Days

Leonid Krassin, Minister of Commerce Covers 37,500 Miles Between Moscow and Germany on Commercial Air Line.

By the Associated Press.
KOENIGSBURG, Germany, Oct. 28.—Leonid Krassin, Russian Soviet Minister of Commerce, claims to hold the world's record among Government cabinet members for airplane flying. He recently completed his fiftieth flight within 100 days from Moscow to Koenigsburg.

Each trip lasted about eight hours and covered a distance of 750 miles. He had taken the railway, he would have consumed 115 days in travel. Instead, his flights required but 17 days. Krassin is thus virtually 100 working days ahead of time.

The example of Krassin's saving of time is used by the German-Russian Aerial Navigation Co. as an argument for extending the air service beyond Moscow to the Orient.

At present letters from German business men to their branches or to other firms in Eastern Asia take at least 21 days. If a regular air-service were to be established, letters could be delivered in Tokio or Shanghai three or four days after leaving Berlin.

DUTCH QUEEN HONORS BOK MEN'S SHOES OF SNAKE SKIN ARE SEEN IN PARIS

Decorated With the Cross of the Knight of Netherland Lion.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 28.—Edward W. Bok of this city has been decorated with the Cross of the Knight of the Netherland Lion, the highest decoration within the bethowal of Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands.

The citation was sent to Bok by the Netherlands Minister to the United States as the Order of the Minister of Foreign Affairs at the Hague. It was conferred "because of your majesty's recognition of your faithful attachment to the country of your birth and of your untiring efforts in providing a clearer appreciation of Dutch history, culture, traditions and spirit whereby you have so largely contributed to a more intelligent understanding between the two nations."

Suitings have become brighter. Men are more brilliant, handkerchiefs for the breast pocket are reminiscent of an Italian "fiesta" and now shoes made of crocodile and snake skins are making their appearance.

DWIGHT DAVIS DEFENDS POLICIES OF COOLIDGE

He Outlines Republican Economies in Reply to Editorial.

Dwight F. Davis, Assistant Secretary of War, has issued the following statement in reply to an editorial published in the Post-Dispatch:

"The St. Louis Post-Dispatch editorially criticized a recent speech of mine on two grounds. They objected because I said that John W. Davis has disappointed many of his admirers by waging a mud-slinging campaign.

"I have heard any number of Democrats, both here and in the East, make that identical statement, although usually in stronger language than I used. The statement means many Democrats will vote for Coolidge, partly because he has waged a clean campaign, discussing the issues and not personalities, and partly because they feel that Davis has no chance of election.

"The second objection to the effect that the Democrats and so-called Progressives should be given the credit for tax reduction, was amusing. Does the talented editor really believe that reduction of taxation is solely a congressional act? If so, why not abolish all taxes by act of Congress? Taxes can only be reduced by increased revenues or by savings due to economical administration of public business. The efficient, business-like, economical conduct of the Government by the Republican administration made tax reduction possible. The figures speak for themselves.

"The expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921 (all but three months of which was under the last Democratic administration), were $5,538,000,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, $2,795,000,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, $3,697,000,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924, $3,497,000,000.

"The first record of the cost of running the Government was cut over $2,000,000,000 by the Republican administration. This fact made tax reduction possible. I reiterate, and the above figures conclusively prove, that the credit for the enormous reduction in the burden of taxation belongs to the Republican administration and to it alone. I thank the editor for this chance to

PUEBLO WHICH HAD 20,000 POPULATION FOUND IN NEVADA

Ruins of Indian City of 3000 Years Ago Discovered Under Sand Drifts in Valley.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Oct. 28.—The first detailed account of the discovery of a pueblo, which some 3000 or more ago housed probably 20,000 people in Southeastern Nevada, was brought to Reno yesterday by M. R. Harrington of the Museum of the American Indian of New York City, who returned from a 10-day investigation of the city.

"The ruins, covered with sand in a continuous line for a distance of six miles and are about a half mile wide," Harrington said.

"The outline of houses of stone and adobe and stone pavements are clearly seen, shrouded in the sands that have drifted down and across the valley. Corner stones jutted out of the sand, and here and there the rectangular ground plan of a house could be seen. Everywhere there are myriads of pieces of broken pottery.

"Some of the stone was dressed, 18x1 inches in dimension, and sometimes rough slabs were set on edge and the adobe joined in order to make walls. We do not know how deep in the sand, but we do know that the dunes contain hundreds of houses and scores of streets.

"The sand dunes covering the dwellings are in a valley in which are located numerous water mounds. Some are on slight elevations or terraces and others are on more extensive plateaus.

"We found corncobs about three inches long and evidence that the people lived not only on the fruits of the chase but on agricultural products. We found arrowheads and bones of deer they probably had eaten.

"The first clue to the existence of the buried city was from the diary of Jedediah Smith, who, in a letter written in 1827 to William Clark, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, and member of the Lewis and Clark expedition, told of visiting the district. An expedition is now being organized to uncover some of the buildings.

"Dr. F. W. Gephart, former dean of the School of Commerce and Finance, will make the presentation on behalf of Duncker. Frank Cannon, a classmate and personal friend of Charles D. Duncker Jr., will unveil the memorial tablet. John F. Lee, second vice-president of the corporation, and Dean Everett S. Lyon will speak in acceptance of the gift. Following the ceremony the building is to be open for public inspection.

SODA POP FOR THE NAVY

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Secretary Daniels' famous pre-prohibition "bone-dry" navy order is to be modified by Secretary Wilbur—out only to an extent which will permit thirsty go to partake of soda pop aboard ship.

Daniels included bold soda water in his order against drinks on navy vessels, taking the view that ship storekeepers had not sufficient storage space at their disposal to make the carrying of soft drink practical. Daniels has been exerting pressure for a revision of the Daniels order, and after receiving assurances from Government experts that the health of the navy will not be jeopardized by the change, Wilbur has decided to lift the soda water ban.

DEMOCRATIC HOPES FOR INDIANA LIE IN MAGIC WAND OF TOM TAGGART

Coolidge Apparently Has Present Advantage in State—Ku Klux Issue Dominates Everything, With Line-Up of Members Uncertain.

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch and New York World.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 28.—

Tom Taggart knows how Sheridan fell with "Winchester" 20 miles away. The Democrats are waiting his homecoming with full faith that he will be able to turn the state from Coolidge to Davis. They do not know how or by how much, but they think that somewhere the Indiana boy has enough magic up his sleeve to bring it about.

It cannot be denied that in the Hoosier State there are a lot of conditions to appeal to the political magician, but, sad to say, there is also a very solid belief that Coolidge has the state now. To an outsider, winning Indiana for the Democratic national ticket in the last week of the campaign appears like the forlornest of hopes. It is possible, to be sure, but unlikely.

It depends largely on whether the Klan Democrats, for there are perhaps 75,000 of that variety, can be held to their political allegiance against their fraternal fealty. The organization chiefs, like State Chamber of Chamber, who occupies a seat on the Klan's executive committee, say they will hold 50,000 of these votes.

"Maybe so," say the Republicans, "but we will get 40,000 of their wives."

Klan Versus Anti-Klan.

That is all there is to this campaign: Klan and anti-Klan. It is the prevailing opinion that the sheeted Knights number 200,000 in this state, or at least, that that number will vote Klanwise. Another element is whether the anti-Klan Republicans will come over in sufficient numbers to balance the Democratic defections.

One block of importance consists of the 100,000 negro voters. How they go depends on how many of them can figure the more or less intricate process of scratching their tickets. That they will generally oppose Jackson, the Republican candidate for Governor, whose name appears on what purports to be the Klan roster, is admitted; but the question of their voting the straight Democratic ticket there is undecided dispute.

It is probably a fair surmise that McCullough, the Democratic nominee for Governor, has about the same percentage of support as Jackson as Mr. Coolidge has over John W. Davis.

The incident of McCray, who was the Republican Governor until he moved to the penitentiary for defrauding the banks, seems to cut more figure in the Indiana race than the performances of ex-Secretary Fall does in New Mexico. The Republicans appear to consider the McCray episode as something that might happen to any political party, and not to be used against it, and the Democrats seem to acquiesce, more or less, in the gentlemen's agreement to ignore the misdeeds of former Vice President Marshall, mentioned it in a recent speech, suggesting that McCray was one Republican who had kept his promise, inasmuch as he went into office pledged to apply the principles of his own business to the State's affairs. But Marshall has a character as a humorist and the breach of etiquette is not held against him.

The jailed Governor, by the way, continues to send from his imprisonment words of cheer to his party, assuring it that the election of Coolidge and Dawes is a foregone conclusion, and the newspapers solemnly publish the communications, as they do those of every political potentiality.

Feud Temporarily Abandoned.

The Watson-New-Beveridge feud, on which the Democrats built such great hopes in the early stages of the campaign, appears to have been put away in lavender until this election is over. Postmaster-General New came out here and made one speech for the ticket; Beveridge, who owes his failure to win the senatorship when Ralston beat him, to a combination of New and the Klan, makes speeches diplomatically limited to the wonders and glories of Coolidge and Dawes. But Watson, who was the Klan's candidate at the Cleveland convention, goes the whole way.

What may be going on under the surface is another story. These three will fight for the senatorship two years hence, and New, at least, realizes that if Jackson wins, the machinery of the party passes out of his hands and into those of the Klan. Anybody who knows what happened when the Watson wards buried New for Beveridge, and the New partisans performed a similar rite on Beveridge at the election, may guess that among the elements of Dr. McCullough's strength must be calculated the invisible asset of the tip of the most expert crowd of political knife-throwers in the business.

Meanwhile the Klan is conducting a real campaign. Grand Dragon Walter F. Bessert is issuing proclamations calling on klansmen to work for the Ku Klux slate.

"Don't let the enemy know too much of your business attitude," runs one warning, "and make sure that the State does not get into the hands of the antagonistic suspended klansmen."

Klan Slates Well Circulated.

However, the slate, complete from Calvin Coolidge to the individual Congressman from each of the districts, is very generally circulated. A few of the Republican candidates have opposed the Klan; so a Democratic list is also issued.

The names of the Democratic opponents to the Republicans whose Klan attitude is unsatisfactory are printed without comment. In the Ku Klux code this conveys that they are klansmen, but as it is not stated, it is rather hard to deny their membership.

It is interesting to note on the Klan bill of fare that Charles W. Bryan "assumes a favorable attitude toward the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," though it is on record that the Democratic candidate for Vice President endorsed John W. Davis' position on the order.

Indiana is expected to cast more than 1,000,000 votes, but mortality here is starting high. Senator Ralston, for example, won by only 35,000 votes, which was double the average. Ralston is campaigning religiously for Davis and the Democratic State ticket, and, incidentally, having a good deal of fun in the process.

The Democrats of Indiana are aware that if Davis loses Indiana the hope of throwing the election into Congress becomes very remote, which may account for the persistency of their insistence that they are going to carry the State for their national ticket. They admit no magnificence to the State ticket, and apparently their confidence in this direction is not without valid foundation. As to the national ticket, it comes down to "Wait for Taggart and see him put it over."

In modern naval strategy, Wilbur called attention to the fact that the horsepower of airplane engines in commission today in the navy is "almost equal to the total horsepower of the navy with which we defeated Spain," while there was on hand or building airplane engines which would more than double this power.

The Navy Department recently referred to Congress that our navy as a whole was only 80 per cent as powerful as that of Great Britain," he said. "This ratio was faulty, due to the fact that four of our battleships needed boiler repairs. Three of these have since been repaired."

Gen. Howe Visits Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 28.—By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Naval strength in the last analysis must be measured by the "power of a ship's guns can be tested at long ranges," Secretary Wilbur declared last night in a radio Naval day address.

Refers to acquire a "homogeneous force" for the United States will be "swallowing, he asserted, unless the ratio elevating minimum on American battleships be improved to permit all main batteries to reach an available maximum elevation." Subject to the construction of the treaty for the limitation of armaments, we are asking Congress to authorize the necessary changes to permit this elevation," the Secretary said, "so that our fleet may have a maximum efficiency at long ranges. We anticipate that future war will be fought in great naval actions, where a nation will stake everything upon the issue of a single battle."

Denying that the navy had overlooked the importance of aviation,

The Issues of This Campaign

By JOHN W. DAVIS

Democratic Nominee Gives Out First of a Series of Daily Statements Telling Just Where He and the Democratic Party Stand.

By the Associated Press.

DECLARING there "can be no compromise with reaction" and "sue before the people," John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for the presidency, issued today the first of a series of statements for publication between now and Nov. 4.

Davis' attitude regarding a number of the policies he will seek to put into effect, if elected President, is set forth as follows:

"The American people are entitled to know the policies which I will seek to put into effect if elected President of the United States."

"Accordingly, on each day of the coming week I shall restate succinctly my position on each of the more important issues before the people.

The Supreme Issue.

"The supreme issue in this campaign is: Shall the attitude of mind of the national administration be one of liberalism or one of reaction?

"Shall our national policies be framed with primary regard to the interests of a few or to promote the welfare of all?

"Shall the American Government make a symbol of the idea of every man for himself?"

"Shall the American people, through this Government, assume the moral leadership of mankind?

"Such an issue as this transcends every question of today. We face a world wherein the supreme material problem is that of equitable distribution of wealth. The Democratic party stands for the position that law and Government policy should encourage the distribution of that wealth with all proper regard for the toll of the men who produce it; the Republican party for the doctrine that if we turn the major portion of that wealth to a competent few, they will themselves distribute it for the benefit of the many.

"The Democratic party views each morning's sun as the light of a new day; we preach a gospel of public confidence. We stand, above all else, for the right of man to realize his aspirations tomorrow without being shackled by the prejudices—the ignorant or the selfishness of yesterday.

"In that attitude of mind, the American Government must approach the solution of every problem. There can be no compromise with reaction.

"There was a time in the great war when this country passed through a period of spiritual exaltation such as it had never known before. Every man was glad year, eager to sacrifice for the cause he believed things were true. The spirit of every citizen was: 'What can I do for my neighbors and my friends? What can I do for my country?' Such was an expression of a great faith, a faith in all that is best in America. There is nothing in the world worth so much to us as that."

PALMER, HERE, TELLS OF U. S. MERCHANT MARINE PROGRESS

Destined to Be Largest Shipping Organization on Seas, He Declares.

With 400 cargo ships operating over established routes to every important port in the world, the American merchant marine is now a permanent thing, destined in a few years to be the largest shipping organization on the seas, declared Leigh C. Palmer, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, in St. Louis yesterday on an inspection trip of inland traffic offices.

"The merchant marine is not yet on a self-sustaining basis, but the fact that its budget is up $1,000,000 last year is a measure of the progress we are making to that goal," he said. "We are soliciting traffic on a purely business basis.

"The shipping that he can get better service at lower rates by patronizing American ships. We are constantly opening new markets, which were formerly closed to American manufacturers, competing with foreign-owned lines interested primarily in the products of their own countries. St. Louis cannot help but profit from the growth of the merchant marine."

Leigh, who was born in St. Louis in 1873, saw his native city yesterday for the first time in 26 years. He was a boy in 1903, and from 1910 to 1919, becoming a Rear Admiral in 1916. He became president of the Fleet Corporation last August. He left last night for Cincinnati after visiting a sister, Mrs. John T. Lynn, of 1381 Montclair avenue.

The largest number of absences were discovered at 508 Chestnut street, where 58 were not found, and 604 Chestnut street, where 27 were reported unknown. Next to these was the city hospital, where 22 could not be located by police investigators. At some of the downtown hotels registrants were called to attention to the fact that the horsepower of airplane engines in commission today in the navy is "almost equal to the total horsepower of the navy with which we defeated Spain," while there was on hand or building airplane engines which would more than double this power.

The Navy Department recently referred to Congress that our navy as a whole was only 80 per cent as powerful as that of Great Britain," he said. "This ratio was faulty, due to the fact that four of our battleships needed boiler repairs. Three of these have since been repaired."

GEN. HALDEMAN DIES WATCHING THE RACES

Commander of Confederate Veterans, a former Publisher, Succumbs at 78.

By the Associated Press.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 28.—Gen. W. B. Haldeman, 78 years old, commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans, wearing the honors of long active years, has answered the final roll call and gone to rejoin those comrades in gray whose cause he had served since it first called him from his school books, a boy of 16.

Gen. Haldeman, at one time part owner of the Courier-Journal, died yesterday from a heart attack in an emergency hospital at Churchill Downs. He had been sickened a half hour before while watching the races, his favorite sport.

Sick in a box, surrounded by messes and friends, he loved, the white-haired old soldier complained of feeling ill and suggested he should go home. He was assisted outside the box, but before he could reach his automobile the attack came so overcome him it was necessary to call for a stretcher to carry him to the track hospital.

"I am nauseated," he murmured, as he was borne into the hospital, and those were his last words.

Returned to the Races.

Gen. Haldeman, who had valiantly resisted the infirmities of age, suffered an attack about two weeks ago, while addressing the United Daughters of the Confederacy at their State convention in Frankfort. He was similarly stricken on Thursday at Churchill Downs, but he had returned to the races, apparently completely recovered.

He was at the Downs with Mr. and Mrs. Palmer Graham of Louisville; J. Frazer Bonne, a son-in-law, and Mrs. Arthur Brock of New York, wife of a former editor of the Louisville Times.

Soon after Gen. Haldeman was struck his chauffeur brought the General's wife, Mrs. Little Haldeman, and his daughter, Mrs. Eric Bruce. Haldeman Bonne, to the Downs, but he was dead before they arrived.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at the First Presbyterian Church, of which Gen. Haldeman was a trustee. Gen. Haldeman will be buried in full uniform as commander of the Confederate Veterans.

Was in Orphan's Brigade.

His father, Walter N. Haldeman, was founder of the Louisville Courier-Journal. Exiled with his family during the Civil War, he fought for the South, but after the war returned to the city of his birth.

At the outbreak of the conflict older Haldeman was editor and publisher of the Journal. On account of his Southern sympathies his paper was suppressed. The son succeeded in reaching the Southern lines and was commissioned an ensign in the Confederate navy. He soon decided life in the field offered more excitement than on board a gunboat, so resigned to join the famous Orphan's Brigade, with which he fought throughout the war.

With the coming of peace the younger Haldeman, father and son, returned to Louisville and revived the Journal. Young Haldeman left a year later to attend college and his return began his career as editor of the weekly edition of the Courier-Journal, which had been formed by the consolidation of the Journal and the American. Later he became a daily editor in May, 1884.

This year it is announced that the November, December and January dances will be given at the Woman's Club. There will be a number of Chicago guests for the wedding.

car to attend each veteran's reunion, taking from 15 to 20 less fortunate old soldiers along as his guests.

Mrs. Haldeman formerly was Miss Lizzie R. Offutt of Shelbyville, Ky. Besides Mrs. Bonnie, Mrs. Anne Epenheim of Milwaukee, another daughter, survives.

MRS. JOHN BARRYMORE FILES SUIT FOR $200,000 DAMAGES

Actor's Wife Charges Miss Treadwell's Action Against Her Implied
She Was Literary Pirate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Acting under cabled instructions from Mrs. John Barrymore, who is abroad and who writes under the name of Michael Strange, Nathan Burkman, attorney, filed a Supreme Court action for $200,000 damages yesterday against Miss Sophie Treadwell, playwright and author, who recently began a replevin action against Barrymore to recover the script of a play on the life of Edgar Allan Poe, which she submitted to him, Jan. 30, 1921.

Miss Treadwell, the wife of William O. McGeehan, a newspaper man, alleged in her replevin action that Barrymore notified her on Sept. 1 last he would not be able to use her play "Poe," as his wife had also written a play based on the life of Poe which she called "The Dark Crown."

Barrymore read her parts of his wife's play, Miss Treadwell alleged in her affidavit, and this convinced her, she stated, that Mrs. Barrymore's play was not original, "but a copy and imitation of deponent's play."

In the action which Mrs. Barrymore is bringing against Miss Treadwell, the former charges that the defendant meant and intended to mean that the plaintiff was a literary pirate; that she did not write original plays; that she was a plagiarist and an infringer upon the works of others, and particularly the work and works of the defendant."

Having purchased the property, made a shrewd deal with a power which they cancelled an expense contract and got current at a low rate. They are now shipping their produce over the line; they are arranging for shipments to Chicago; and they are extending their road to a point which, opened, will vastly increase their traffic. Opportunity knocked at their doors and found them listening. They have a good and are confident they can manageably where private management

SALE OF C. P. AND ST. L. IN PARCELS APPROVED

Illinois Supreme Court Upholds
Ruling of Sangamon County Court.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 28.—Permission to sell the Chicago, Peoria & St. Louis Railroad in parcels was granted bondholders by the Supreme Court this morning in upholding a ruling of the Sangamon County Circuit Court.

The decree of the Sangamon County Court ordered that the road be offered for sale both in its entirety and in parcels. Under the court order the line may be offered in 18 parcels or in sections between Springfield and East St. Louis, between Peoria and Springfield, and between Jacksonville and Havana. Some of the sections may be sold, but no one section may be sold and the other sections left unsold. The whole road must be sold or none.

Permission to abandon operations of the road was given by the Interstate Commerce Commission March 21, 1923, when it was shown that it was losing $600,000 annually.

The road, which has 237 miles of track or trackage rights between Peoria and East St. Louis, is the largest railroad entirely within Illinois. It was virtually born in bankruptcy, as the smaller parent road from which it was formed in 1890 still exists in the hands of the Federal Courts. Bankruptcy has been its lot most of the time since.

Unless the purchasers of the road continue it in operation, 34 towns with a total population of about 11,000, will be without railroad service. Efforts to interest the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific in the line failed. The Illinois Commission of Transportation Surveyor Henry Ford as a possible purchaser, but he answered that he was not interested at this time.

According to attorneys for the road, the Supreme Court ruling gives that receivers of the road the option of selling the line in 18 sections, three sections or as a whole. This reversed the stand which the court took in a previous decision that the road must be sold as a whole. Justices Stone, Hurst and Farmer dissented from the opinion which was written by Justice Dunn.

LA FOLLETTE ACCUSES REPUBLICAN LEADERS OF MISCONDUCT ON SUGAR

Says Smoot and Hoover Tried to Force Cuba to Limit Production—Details Efforts to Influence Tariff Commission.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Washington Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BALTIMORE, Oct. 28.—Starting charges of official misconduct in connection with the fixing of the tariff rate on sugar, involving personal financial gain in some instances, were made against a group of high Government officials by Senator La Follette in a campaign speech here last night.

The gravest charge was that against Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, one of the Republican leaders in the Senate, whom La Follette accused of using his official position in an effort to maintain a high price level on sugar, in which he was financially interested. The charge included that of attempting to coerce a member of the Tariff Commission in the performance of his duty.

Others whom La Follette charged with deliberate and calculated misconduct in connection with sugar were Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Senator William Phipps, and Congressman Timberlake, Republicans, of Colorado; Commissioner Glassie of the Tariff Commission; William V. Hodges, then attorney for sugar companies but now treasurer of the Coolidge campaign fund, and former Senator McCumber, now a sugar lawyer.

La Follette asserted, moreover, that for three months President Coolidge has had in his possession a report from the Tariff Commission recommending a reduction in the duty on sugar, which, if made effective, would result in a decrease in the retail price of sugar approximating a total of $1,000,000 a week and that the President has failed to act because of pressure brought by men who are supporting him for re-election.

Gives Names and Places.

There was nothing veiled or vague about the charges. The Senator called names and gave dates and places. It was a typical La Follette speech, bristling with specific and detailed charges, and the audience of 12,000—the largest he has addressed during the campaign—listened breathlessly. La Follette made the following direct, positive and circumstantial accusations:

1. That while the Tariff Commission was considering the duty on sugar last May, Senator Smoot, who was financially interested in the beet sugar industry, called William S. Culbertson, a member of the commission, to his office in Washington, and permitted attorneys and lobbyists for sugar companies to browbeat and heckle Culbertson in an effort to make him vote for a high duty on sugar.

2. That in 1922 Senator Smoot, Senator Hoover and Gen. Enoch Crowder, American Minister to Cuba, attempted to force the Cuban Government to recall the Cuban cane sugar crop by 1,500,000 tons, in order that the American price on sugar might be maintained at a high level, and that Smoot, who is chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, which frames these tariff schedules, offered in return to get a lower duty on Cuban sugar.

3. That the Department of Commerce, in February, 1923, issued a misleading report on the condition of the sugar supply which resulted in a "wildly speculative market" and caused advances in the price.

4. That Commissioner Glassie of the Tariff Commission insisted on participating in the commission's deliberations on sugar duties, notwithstanding that his wife owned $144,000 of sugar stocks, the value of which would be affected by the commission's decision, and that when three members of the commission protested to President Coolidge and asked him to remove Glassie, the President replied that he would support Glassie in whatever stand he chose to take.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

SMOOT OFFERS TO SELL HIS SUGAR SHARES TO LA FOLLETTE AT $3 EACH

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—REPLYING to repeated attacks by Senator La Follette in connection with the sugar controversy, Senator Reed Smoot of Utah today offered to sell to La Follette for $3 a share his stock in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. He listed the holdings as 440 shares.

By the Associated Press.
SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Oct. 28.—Utah-Idaho Sugar Co. stock yesterday was $3.00 bid, $3.15 asked on the local exchange.

5. That after Glassie had been forced by a congressional resolution to withdraw from the deliberations, the commission, at a majority vote, voted to recommend to the President reductions in the duty on sugar which would result in lowering the retail price a total of about $1,000,000 a week, and that the President has failed to act on the report because of the fact that men interested in sugar are helping in his campaign for re-election.

Function of Commission.

The audience had listened tensely to this narrative, in a silence broken by audible gasps and an occasional low whistle of astonishment.

"Do you realize what this means?" La Follette asked solemnly. "Here was an official sitting among a reduction in rates, was former Senator McCumber, one of the authors of the law. The Colorado beet sugar interests were represented by William V. Hodges, who is now treasurer of the Republican National Committee. On May 14, the chief of the sugar division submitted his expert report. On May 22, by a vote of 3 to 2, the commission decided to press the case to an early report.

"About two days later Senator Smoot, who was a stockholder in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co., called Commissioner Culbertson to his office at the Capitol. Senator Smoot told Commissioner Culbertson that there had been much criticism of the Tariff Commission by certain judges in a case which determined that it was to be used as the basis for the President's determination, and he is inveigled by a United States Senator into a conference at which attorneys representing one side of the case try to influence his decision.

"The third is Mr. Glassie, who I have to know was approached by President Harding at the personal solicitation of the two Senators from Louisiana, both known as 'Sugar Senators.'

"I believe that the three remaining commissioners, Lewis, Costigan and Culbertson, to be fair and disinterested men.

FACTS LAID BEFORE COOLIDGE.

"More than 19 months ago the tariff commission ordered an investigation of the tariff on sugar. Glassie had an interest in sugar, because his wife owned about $144,000 worth of stock in a Louisiana sugar company, but Glassie insisted on taking part in the decision. Three of the commissioners tried to get him to withdraw. You would think that an honorable man, and one in a proper sense of decency, would have disqualified himself voluntarily. But Glassie said he knew his own mind and that he had decided he was not prejudiced, and that he proposed to sit in.

"Finally, Costigan, Culbertson and Lewis took the matter to President Coolidge and laid the facts before him. They called his attention to the universal Government rule that a Judge cannot sit in a case in which he is interested. God only knows how a man could remain either cool or silent under such circumstances, but Coolidge did. Later he sent word to the commission that he not only would refuse to remove Glassie, but he would back him up in any stand he chose to take.

"The matter was taken up in Congress. I personally drafted a resolution denouncing the participation of Glassie in this case. Glassie is a Democrat. I took the resolution to Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, and to him I thought it was a case for him to clean his own house. He said, 'I think you're right,' and he introduced the resolution. About the same time Representative Hoch of Kansas introduced a resolution in the House prohibiting any committee who sat in a case in which he was interested from drawing his salary.

"Reed Smoot, one of the Old Guard leaders in the Senate, and the Republican boss of Utah, is, or was, a stockholder in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co.

"Former Senator McCumber, who has promised to deliver North Dakota for Coolidge in the November election, is attorney for the American Cane Sugar League.

"I think those are some of the reasons for Mr. Coolidge's delay in acting on the sugar report, and I think they explain some of those loud silences around the White House."

Attempt to Coerce Cuba.

Earlier in his speech La Follette had made his charges touching the alleged attempt to coerce the Cuban Government. He said:

"In December, 1921, and January, 1922, the beet Sugar Trust, in conjunction with the New York bankers who control the cane sugar trust, made use of this Cuban Government to reduce the production of Cuban sugar by 1,500,000 tons. Beet sugar, of course, is manufactured in this country and cane sugar comes from Cuba. Consequently, a shortage in the Cuban cane sugar crop would cause higher prices for American beet sugar."

"Senator Smoot, a large owner of beet sugar stock, and chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which writes the tariff bills, took the leading part in this conspiracy, as is proven by a letter over his own signature. In that letter he offered to reduce the duty on cane sugar if the Cubans would cut down their production to a certain amount. Secretary Hoover and Minister Crowder also participated in the scheme."

"It failed only because the Government of Cuba rejected this sordid proposal. They were a mighty sight more honest," La Follette shouted, even to our own people, our own officials were here. He is what President Menocal of Cuba said about the matter a year later: Judge for yourselves what prices the American public would be paying now had not Cuba resisted the attempt to reduce its crop to $2,500,000, as urged by the American Government."

"Do you get that? This shameful proposal was understood by the Cuban people to come from our Government."

Daugherty's Furtile Suit.

"This failure did not discourage the Sugar Trust," he went on. "Unable to create a real shortage, they managed to create the appearance of a shortage through the obliging compliance of Secretary Hoover. On Feb. 9, 1923, the Department of Commerce issued a report on sugar production which was interpreted as indicating a shortage in world production of approximately 750,000 tons. It resulted in a wildly speculative market, out of which the gamblers reaped profits of millions at the expense of American dinner tables."

"There was such an uproar that Attorney-General Harry Daugherty was forced by public opinion to resign from the post of the New York Sugar Exchange, but he brought the suit in such form as to insure that he would lose it. He brought it against the wrong men."

"The attorney who defended the sugar exchange in that suit was John W. Davis, the present Democratic candidate for President. He won the suit. He couldn't help winning it. Daugherty had made it impossible for him to lose."

Last night's meeting was held in the historic Fifth Regiment Armory, where Woodrow Wilson was nominated for the presidency in 1912, and La Follette evoked cheers when he declared that "up to 1912 no man had ever seen the perils of monopoly control over the government, or outlined them more clearly, than Wilson had."

Three Months Nothing Done.

"For three months he has had that report, and has done nothing. When he went to Vermont on his vacation it was said he had taken it with him to consider and make his decision. But he came back and remained mute. I do not believe he intends to make his decision to two, to two, the commission made its report to President Coolidge recommending a reduction in the tariff on sugar, a reduction which had become effective, would have lowered the price of sugar to American housewives approximately a total of $1,000,000 a week."

SMOOT REPLIES TO
LA FOLLETTE ON SUGARSays Culbertson Was Called to His Office to Listen to Producers.Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Bldg.WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Sen.
Ed Smoot of Utah, who was charged by Senator La Follette last night at Baltimore with having attempted to coerce William S. Culbertson of Mass., vice-chairman of the Tariff Commission, to change his attitude on revision of sugar tariff rates, admitted that he had called

Culbertson to his office in May to confer with American sugar industry representatives, but denied that any Federal post had been offered Culbertson. Senator Smoot declared that neither he nor any sugar industry representative had the "appointing power" and for that reason it would be absurd for them to make an offer of a Federal position. When it was pointed out that the intimation was that political influence could bring about such an appointment, Smoot held to his contention that neither he nor the sugar representatives had thought of such a thing. Culbertson could not be reached this morning.

"Trust vs. Producers."
Senator Smoot issued the following statement:

"This is a fight between the sugar refiners of America, known generally as the trust and the producers of sugar in America.

G. O. P. CHAIRMAN IN APPEAL FOR FULL VOTE

Butler Says "Stay-at-Home"
Have Decided Elections in the Past.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee issued a statement last night urging all voters to go to the polls Nov. 4. Butler said:

"In years past stay-at-home voters, through negligence, have decided elections. It is important this year, more than ever before, that all of the men and women of America who have the right to vote go to the polls and exercise that privilege."

"If a full vote is cast there can be no question of the outcome. Calvin Coolidge will be elected President one week from tomorrow by an overwhelming majority. But it is highly important that during the next week every effort be made to impress upon everyone the necessity of participating in the choice of our president."

In 1920, the total vote for all presidential candidates was 24,113,832, the largest vote ever cast. It is significant, however, that that same year there were 25,708,083 persons having the right to vote who did not go to the polls. In other words, for every 100 votes cast for President in 1920, there were 96 stay-at-homes.

In some states the number of stay-at-homes exceed voters. The total of vote slackers has been growing.

In 1896, it had been figured that 80 per cent of the qualified citizens voted. In 1900, the percentage was 73 per cent. In 1912, it had dropped to 62 per cent. In 1920, it was about 55 per cent. This is enough to alarm every American who believes in our institutions.

"I make this appeal to every man and woman in the country who believes in Calvin Coolidge and in Republican principles, to do everything in his or her power between now and election day to see that a full vote is cast. Registration in many of our large cities indicates a tremendous interest. But registration is only the first step."

Coffins Carried Through Dublin Streets to Hall—Public Funerals Planned.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, Oct. 28.—The bodies of 77 men executed by the military authorities of the Irish Free State in 1922 and 1923 were handed over to relatives today for burial in consecrated ground. The public funeral will take place tomorrow and Thursday.

The first five turned over by the Government include that of the late Lieutenant-Commander Ernest Childers, whose body was given to former Deputy Robert C. Barton, in whose home Childers was captured.

The coffins were carried in a procession through the streets to a hall, where they will lie in state until tomorrow, when they will be removed to the Carmelite Church for services prior to burial at the Glasnevin Cemetery.

ROBBER SLAYS BUSINESS MAN
Newark Man Shot When He Falls to Hold Up Hands.

By the Associated Press.
ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 28.—Leaving his home to mail a letter, Louis K. Rittenhouse, president of the Rittenhouse Rubber Co. of Newark, was confronted by two men and fatally shot when he refused to put up his hands last night. He died early today in a hospital.

Edward Drew, a 19-year-old Orange negro, is under arrest charged with the shooting. An officer said Drew was found hiding in a clump of bushes not far from the Rittenhouse home.

SMOOT REPLIES TO LA FOLLETTE ON SUGAR

was one of them. The meeting was held but a short time during which Mr. Mead (the representative of the sugar producers of Hawaii) presented the case to Mr. Culbertson along the above lines. Mr. Culbertson made a very brief statement and left the committee room. He stated he wanted to be fair with the industry and that was about all he said. No request was made of him by myself or anyone else at that meeting.

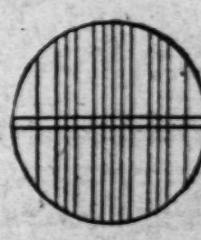

The result of the meeting, so far as I was concerned, proved to me that the complaint made by the sugar producers was just one and that before this thing in finally settled the American people will come to that conclusion. This is a fight between the sugar refiners of America, known generally as the sugar trust and the producers of sugar in America. Every civilized country in the world takes a good share of its revenues from duties upon sugar. America is about the lowest. Destroy the American sugar industry and the sugar trust will tell the American people what price they shall pay for sugar, as they did in 1920.

"It is true that I am a stockholder in the Utah-Idaho Sugar Co., holding 448 shares. I have never owned more than this amount in my life in the said company. If Mr. La Follette wants to buy said amount, I will sell it to him at $3 a share."

THE CELESTIAL TIMEPIECE and how Elgin uses it to make watches better

A FEW centuries ago men thought that their destinies were controlled by the stars. That events to come could be predicted by the stars.

Today we no longer look to the stars to forecast the future.

But still, in another way, the stars control us.

The stars are the final arbiters of time—and by time almost all human destinies are governed.

Every time you look at your Elgin Watch you come in contact with the stars.

For Elgin maintains its own Time Observatory.

Here the Elgin astronomers take the time direct from the stars.

With star observations

The new Elgin "B. W. Raymond" Railroad Watch is supplied with two types of balance wheel—the Elgin regular steel balance and the Elgin special lever balance.

almost unbelievably exact they check the master clocks.

And second after second, hour after hour, the master clocks send out the precise time to the Elgin work-rooms and timing laboratories to control every operation in making and timing your Elgin watch.

• • •

If you should wonder why it is that Elgin goes to all this pains and expense of maintaining its own observatory, please bear in mind that Elgin is the professional time-keeper.

Everything that Elgin does is done in the professional spirit.

More than any other one thing it is this spirit—as it shows itself in practical timekeeping quality—which is leading people to buy better and better watches.

Your jeweler will show you Elgin Watches in a wide variety and his advice as to the selection of your Elgin will be valuable.

HONOLULU, Oct. 28.—After drifting three miles off shore for several hours yesterday, Lieut. H. C. Frazier and two passengers, flying in a final attempt to establish an inter-island air mail service, were rescued as their plane was on the verge of sinking. A United States destroyer which effected the rescue sank the wrecked plane by gun fire.

The plane was bound from Honolulu to the island of Maui. Two other planes carrying mail to other island points, as part of the Navy day observance program, arrived safely.

Third Set of Twins in Four Years.
LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 28.—In Cypress Lawn Cemetery, north of this city, the ashes of Frank Ross Chambers Jr., son of a New York millionaire, repose today, beside those of Marilouise Chambers, his 17-year-old stepdaughter by his first marriage—both dead by their own hands within two weeks of each other. After a funeral service held here, attended by Mrs. Beatrice Chambers, Chambers' 19-year-old second wife, and her mother, Mrs. George Evans of Los Angeles, the man's body was cremated and placed in an urn next to the cinderized remains of Marilouise.

Late last night a Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Chambers came to his death from a pistol bullet inflicted by his own hand. Mrs. Beatrice Chambers and her mother were at the inquest, but were not questioned.

Chambers killed himself in his home here last Friday, drug-crazed and grief-stricken over the death of his stepdaughter, who took her own life two weeks previously after having fought for months against the ravages brought on by an alleged addiction to narcotics.

CHAMBERS BURIED NEAR GRAVE OF HIS STEP-DAUGHTER

Son of Rich Clothing Manufacturer Was Drug
Crazed and Grief-Stricken
Over Girl's Suicide.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN MATEO, Cal., Oct. 28.—In Cypress Lawn Cemetery, north of this city, the ashes of Frank Ross Chambers Jr., son of a New York millionaire, repose today, beside those of Marilouise Chambers, his 17-year-old stepdaughter by his first marriage—both dead by their own hands within two weeks of each other. After a funeral service held here, attended by Mrs. Beatrice Chambers, Chambers' 19-year-old second wife, and her mother, Mrs. George Evans of Los Angeles, the man's body was cremated and placed in an urn next to the cinderized remains of Marilouise.

Late last night a Coroner's jury returned a verdict that Chambers came to his death from a pistol bullet inflicted by his own hand. Mrs. Beatrice Chambers and her mother were at the inquest, but were not questioned.

Chambers killed himself in his home here last Friday, drug-crazed and grief-stricken over the death of his stepdaughter, who took her own life two weeks previously after having fought for months against the ravages brought on by an alleged addiction to narcotics.

A diary in the girl's handwriting found in her stepfather's room the night of his suicide revealed that Marilouise Chambers had been a victim of a drug she used to drown the unhappiness caused by the divorce of her parents a year ago in Portland, Ore., and also to forget a "great sorrow" that came into her life a few years back when she was in Tacoma and Seattle, Wash.

Investigation today seems to indicate that Chambers was the father of the girl, despite his earlier statement to the contrary.

Brokers by Girls' Death.

According to last night's testimony, given mainly by James F. Foezel, an agency detective from Los Angeles, employed by Chambers as a companion after the death of Marilouise. Chambers was heartbroken over his stepdaughter's suicide and during the last two weeks of his life used narcotics to such an extent, Foezel said, that he became crazed with the drugs. Foezel also stated that Chambers even resorted to the drug of ether diluted in water to calm his shattered nerves.

"Chambers was a nervous wreck," Foezel told the Coroner's jury, "and his condition was undoubtedly caused by grief over his stepdaughter's death and by his subsequent excessive use of narcotics and ether."

An anonymous letter, threatening Chambers' life, was received by Marilouise's stepfather several days before his suicide but it was not taken seriously, Foezel declared. "It was my opinion that some crank wrote it," the detective said, "and I explained to Chambers that he need not worry over it."

As an apparent precautionary measure, however, Chambers applied to Chief of Police T. F. Burke of San Mateo for a permit to carry a pistol. This was refused. In spite of this refusal, Chambers purchased an automatic pistol the Monday before his death, the testimony revealed. It was this pistol that served to end his life.

After the inquest, Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Evans were driven to Chambers' former residence. The second Mrs. Chambers was married to Frank Chambers Jr. in Seattle about a year ago. Prior to her marriage she had been a manicurist in that city.

Denial of Girls' Charges.

In Marilouise's diary it was stated that the cause of the girl's unhappiness was the alleged ill treatment she had received from her stepmother. In a brief interview late yesterday Mrs. Beatrice Chambers declared dreamily that "all Marilouise wrote of me, all the charges, were the result of dope. She was too terrible to be written about and, therefore, I am too ill to speak."

It is understood here that Chambers' ashes are to be shipped East at the request of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross Chambers Sr. of New York City. The elder Chambers is president of a clothing manufacturing company of New York. Removal of Chambers' ashes from Cypress Lawn apparently would be in disregard of his wishes. A few days before his death Chambers, according to the authorities here, was arranged for a private funeral, but beside the

A will repeat loans as an aftermath to the double suicide, though no confirmation of this has been obtainable. Chambers left the bulk of his fortune—$300,000 worth of shares in his father's clothing concern—to his mother, leaving to Mrs. Beatrice Chambers whatever was left. This residuary is said to be almost nothing, for Chambers' San Mateo property, now occupied by his second wife, has not been paid for in full, according to the authorities here. It is learned that Mrs. Chambers has retained two Los Angeles attorneys with the probable object of contesting her husband's will.

Marilouise's mother, the first Mrs. Chambers, is living in Washington, D. C.

PIGEON BEARS PLEA FOR AID

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—A carrier pigeon brought an appeal for help to the life guard station here last night, presumably from a disabled vessel in Lake Michigan. A message, tied to the bird's foot, read: "Five men afloat on Lake Michigan, help quick. Capt. White." There was no other mark on the paper to indicate the location of the party supposedly in distress or to identify White.

Before You
Buy Insurance
Try to Imagine
You Have Just Had a Fire!

IMAGINE it is the morning after. Picture to yourself the activities of your insurance agent, and the company that carries your insurance.

The agent—Will he stop soliciting new business and rush to give you help? Will he inspect the damage quickly, thoroughly and intelligently? Will he report to the company fairly? Will he do everything in his power to get a prompt, equitable payment of your loss?

Is he a member of the Fire Underwriters' Association and bound to serve you well and to safeguard you in every way?

The company—Will it SURELY have the money to pay your loss? Will it act promptly? Has it a broad, human understanding of your problems, and a dislike for quibbling and red tape? Has it a reputation for prompt payment of every honest loss, and is it proud of that reputation?

If you try to imagine that you have just had a fire, you will see the supreme importance of getting the right answers to these questions.

You can ask your questions by mail, in person or by telephone. But don't put it off. Investigate today.

There are many ways in which the Fire Underwriters' Association can serve you. Perhaps the best is in bringing the agents into a broad organized group for service, not for profit. Ask your agent if he is a member. Insist upon this qualification.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Charlie Usener, wife of a farmer living a mile south of town, was beaten on the head with an iron bar and then shot in the forehead yesterday afternoon.

Charles Parrott, 19 years old, a negro, recently from Xenia, O., later was found by a posse about a mile from the Usener home and confessed. A son of the victim attempted to shoot him but his aim was bad and Parrott was locked in the county jail. Surgeons said Mrs. Usener would recover.

QUINCY, Ill., Oct. 28.—Mrs. John Milton, negro ax slayer of the 8-month-old infant of Mrs. Blaney Collins, and charged with assault on the mother on Aug. 8 at Morris, Ill., is in the bars of the Jefferson County Jail. He is held on a warrant of murder in the first degree and attempted criminal assault. He was returned yesterday from Ravenna, O., where he was arrested.

DAWES TO SPEAK HERE TOMORROW ON FLYING VISIT

Will Arrive on Special Train About 7 P. M. and Depart Immediately After Address at Coliseum.

WILL BE GREETED BY COMMITTEE OF 60.

Chancellor Hadley to Open Meeting and Preside— Baker Also on the Program for Speech.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Republican nominee for Vice President, will speak at the Coliseum tomorrow night in the course of a whirlwind visit to St. Louis, the first stop on the final lap of his campaign. He will arrive from Chicago on his special train shortly before 7 p. m. and will depart for St. Joseph, Mo., immediately after the meeting.

This is Gen. Dawes' third visit to St. Louis in less than a month, but it will witness the first successful operation of a reception committee. The General, bound for Indiana, spent an hour in St. Louis the morning of Oct. 3, but was asleep and several Republicans who arose early to see him were disappointed.

His Second Visit.

A gain on Oct. 13 the Dawes retinue stopped in St. Louis on its way to Louisville, for a two-hour stay beginning at 9:45 p. m. Supporters agreed that he would certainly be up the time and accordingly a delegation led by Senator Spencer was at the station to tell him of the Missouri situation. But the General slept on. Tomorrow is another day, however.

The reception committee, numbering about 60 persons, will meet the nominee in his special car and remain with him until he leaves for the Coliseum. The automobile procession will then go north in Twentieth street to Washington avenue and west to the Coliseum.

Arrangements for the meeting provide for some 150 vice-presidents to occupy the platform with Gen. Dawes. Included in this list of vice-presidents are Festus J. Wade and Sam Lazarus, Democrats, who recently announced for President Coolidge.

Yale Professor Says Standard Oil Workers Died From Tetraethyl Gas Poisoning.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—While physicians professed themselves baffled in efforts to run down the mysterious poison which already has caused the death of three workers in the Bayway, N. J., plant of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, Dr. Yandell Henderson, professor of applied physiology at Yale, declared the cause of the poisoning was tetraethyl lead.

Tetraethyl lead is being used,

Henderson said, in the commercial manufacture of ethyl gas, a fluid which, mixed with gasoline, is designed to eliminate "knocking" in automobile engines. He charged that its sale, already on a commercial basis in many States, is a grave public menace.

The declaration of Standard Oil officers that the deaths and symptoms of mania caused by the gas resulted from unknown effects of chemical experiments, was hit from another angle when Prosecutor David of Union County announced his investigation showed manufacturing processes and not experiments were being carried on in the "Looney Gas" laboratory of the company.

Plant Closed, Employees Examined.
The plant has been ordered closed and 40 men employed there were given physical examinations yesterday. As a result many were sent to Reconstruction Hospital in this city yesterday afternoon.

No information about these men was available. It was reported their number may have been as high as 40. Five other victims had been taken to the same hospital Saturday and Sunday, and two of these are in a serious condition. The physicians working over them are groping in darkness. They admit they know of no antidote for the poison. Despite the charges of Prof. Henderson, they say the symptoms of the victims are entirely new to them and that there is none of the ordinary evidences of lead poisoning. Only one of the attending physicians appeared to believe lead poisoning had any connection with the cases.

William McSwainey, 27 years old, of Elizabeth, N. J., who died today, is the third victim of the poisoning. He was taken to the hospital in a straight-jacket.

Tests Showed No Danger.

Confronted with the Henderson charges, the executives of the Standard Oil Co. decided experiments had been made to determine whether ethyl gas was safe, considering the tetraethyl lead in it, and that these disclosed there was no public danger in its sale.

Thorough tests had been made by the United States Bureau of Mines at Pittsburg, they said, and these proved the lead was either used up or remained as a deposit in motor cylinders. There was no indication, they argued, that the product was dangerous either in handling or in the gas from automobile exhausts.

Physicians of the company's staff are making further experiments on animals, they continued, and similar experiments are being made with the product at Columbia University.

Prosecutor David announced he would await the result of an autopsy on the body of Ernest Osgood, who died at Elizabeth General Hospital Saturday, before considering the possibility of criminal negligence. Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner, performed an autopsy yesterday on the body of Walter Dymock, who died in Reconstruction Hospital. He said the autopsy revealed "unusual conditions," which did not explain themselves. Thus far he has found no indication of lead in the body, but he added determination of its presence would require several weeks.

Possibility of Public Menace.

Dr. Norris said his attention had been called six weeks ago to the possibility of public menace in the sale of ethyl gas, since it appeared reasonable to expect that the lead in the fluid would come out of automobile exhausts in some form, and that city officials would not be caught napping if the product is sold here. It is not sold here at present, and pending more complete investigation of its alleged danger, the city is taking no official steps, he said.

The ethyl gas is being marketed in the Middle West, in Maryland and in Northern New Jersey by the Ethyl Gas Corporation, half of whose stock is owned by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey and half by the General Motors Corporation. The product based on the use of tetraethyl lead, was worked out by Thomas Midgley Jr., formerly of the General Motors Chemical Co., now vice president of the Ethyl Gas Corporation. The inherent difficulty of manufacture on a commercial scale was said to be a scarcity of tetraethyl lead.

Standard Oil Co. representatives said yesterday that the experiments made at Bayway aimed to improve the original process and that other experiments had been made to work out a different product which would receive the same results. They refused to reveal the exact nature of the chemicals used other than tetraethyl lead, saying that was a business secret.

Takes Apples on Least Order.
Twenty-four barrels of apples from Calhoun County were taken by the finder of a ladder lost by John Johnson of the Johnson Commission Co., 809 North Third street, yesterday. Johnson told police he went to the leves to get a duplicate order on the Belle of Calhoun for the apples and discovered a man with a helper and two trucks had driven to the steamer and had hauled away the apples valued at $100.

MARANVILLE, GRIMM AND COOPER TRADED TO CHICAGO BY PITTSBURGH

Grantham, Aldridge and Recruit Niehaus Become Members of Pirate Crew

No Money Involved in Deal Which Effectually Breaks Up McKechnie's Team of Near Champions—Cooper Won 20 Games Last Season.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 28.—With startling suddenness, the Pittsburgh and Chicago National League baseball clubs swung the most pretentious player deal engineered in recent years, when Walter ("Rabbit") Maranville, shortstop and second baseman, Wilbur Cooper, star left-hand pitcher, and Charlie Grimm, first baseman, were traded to the Cubs for Victor Aldridge, pitcher, George Grantham, infielder, and Albert Niehaus recruit first baseman recently purchased from Chattanooga. There was no cash consideration.

Grimm, Cooper and Maranville compose a trio that is famous in annals of Pittsburg baseball. Maranville was obtained from Boston in 1920 in a trade that sent Barefoot, Southworth and Nicholson to the Braves. Grimm was purchased the same year from Little Rock of the Southern Association. Cooper came to Pittsburg in 1912 from Columbus of the American Association. He has the reputation of being one of the best left-handers in the league and was one of the few hurlers in the National League to win 20 games last season.

In announcing the deal, Sam Druefus, secretary of the Pirates, said that it was his club's object to obtain greater bunting power.

"For four years now we have been in the pennant race right up to the last ditch," said Mr. Druefus, "and each year we have failed to pull through in a pinch. Lack of hitting power, it seems, has been the chief cause of our failure, and it was to overcome this weakness that we have made the changes just announced."

Manager McKechnie will rework his entire lineup next year. Eddie Moore, obtained from Atlanta in 1922, will play second base, the brilliant showing of the youthful star in the latter half of the season stamping him as deserving a place in the regular lineup. Grantham will probably be used in the outfield.

Niehaus Is Untried.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The trade which transferred Vic Aldridge, right-handed pitcher, George Grantham, second baseman, and Albert Niehaus, first baseman, to the Pittsburgh Nationals in exchange for Walter Maranville, infielder, Wilbur Cooper, left-hand pitcher, and Charlie Grimm, first baseman, was the biggest ever negotiated by President Veeck of the Chicago National Club.

Many Chicago fans regretted the passing of George Grantham, who came to the City in the spring of 1923 from Omaha, Western League team, as a third baseman. He started with the Cubs as a second baseman, and while his hitting was fine, his fielding was erratic. He hit .315 last season and stole 21 bases.

Aldridge joined the Cubs in 1921 but was sent to Los Angeles for seasoning. After he came back in the spring of 1923 he pitched good ball and was regarded as a star. Niehaus was purchased from Chattanooga shortly before the close of the past season.

No Eleven in U.S. Advanced as Zuppke and Rockne Teams, Perry Says

Eastern Critic Thinks Mid-West Outfits Would Be Popular Pick to Battle for Title, at This Time — Rankings of Various Conferences Indicated.

By Lawrence Perry.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Something like order is beginning to establish itself out of the early season football chaos. Certain teams in the various sections have emerged so that now it is possible to segregate a select few from the mass. It is quite true that unfortunate things will later happen to some of this outstanding group; none the less, among its components are those who will ultimately don the champion's bays in their various sections.

If two elevens were to be selected to fight it out for the national championship right now unquestionably the vast majority of votes would cast for Illinois and Notre Dame. And of all teams these two seem most likely to finish the season with unblemished records.

Both Illinois and Notre Dame are beautifully trained outfits. Zuppke's men handle the ball more cleanly than the Hoosiers, but on the other hand whereas four of Notre Dame's backs play a vital part in advancing the ball this Illinois attack to date has been almost exclusively built around Grange.

Could Notre Dame Stop Grange?

How far would Grange get against the fierce and accurate backfield tackling of the South Bend team? No one can answer this, but the writer would be willing to wager he would not by any means run hog-wild as he did against Michigan. Notre Dame's plays are on a wider pattern than those of Illinois and no coach would elect to install the huddle system of signals with a cool, resourceful, prefigurator such as Stuhldreher at the helm.

The writer is inclined to regard the open field and line interference of Illinois as superior to anything of the sort he has yet seen. All in all, a game between Notre Dame and Illinois would be well worth seeing.

Three Eastern elevens have neither been defeated nor tied to date—Pennsylvania, Lafayette and Syracuse. But in ranking elevens many facts should be considered other than the sheer fact of victory. For example, a very logical question would be: "If any of this trio had met Notre Dame, or Dartmouth, or Yale, would it still be undefeated?" In other words, scores should not be the sole consideration in the rating of teams.

Dartmouth Ranks High.

The writer believes thus, that Dartmouth, although tied by Yale, must be ranked with the best in this section just now. Tying Yale and beating Harvard on successive Saturdays is a notable feat, make no mistake. Syracuse has great promise, but she has done nothing to suggest vast power and dazzling ability. Of all the leading teams, Pennsylvania, in defeating the powerful Columbia team, seems to have turned in the most signal performance. Lafayette's victories over the in-and-out Pittsburgh Seven and a fair W-J team, were creditable but not amazing. Here again the way it should look:

EASTERN TEAMS: First group—Pennsylvania, Dartmouth, Syracuse, Lafayette, Yale. Second group—Army, Columbia, Princeton, Brown, Harvard, Rutgers, Lehigh, Holy Cross and Boston College.

WESTERN CONFERENCE: Illinois first; Chicago, Iowa and Ohio State bracketed for second. (This group has tie games to make records). Michigan third, having retrieved herself through defeat of Wisconsin (Wisconsin and Minnesota bracketed in fourth place). Then Purdue, Northwestern and Indiana.

PACIFIC COAST: Southern California still leads. California second and then Washington University and Stanford. All these elevens, however, are strong contenders for the conference title. Bears are becoming formidable.

SOUTHWESTERN CONFERENCE: (rated by Sam Pace of Fort Worth): Southern Methodist, University, first; Texas University and Texas A.-M. bracketed for second, but Texas having edge. Then, in the order named.

INTER-CITY LEAGUE OF TEN PROFESSIONAL GOLFERS IS FORMED

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, announced today plans for the formation of the Professional Golfers' League of Florida. This is the first time it has ever been organized and is being tried out as an experiment with the idea of making it a permanent feature of Florida's winter season if it proves successful.

Ten of the leading professional golfers in the country will play here and home matches with the various Florida resorts. Hagen and Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick shot master, will represent Pasadena-on-the-Gulf; Bobby Crickshank and Johnny Farrell will play for Tampa. Gene Littler and Leo Dugel will represent Hollywood, while Mike Brady and Tommy Armour will play for Miami. One other team in the Jacksonville-St. Augustine district is planned to bring the total number of teams to five.

Play will start early in January and continue throughout February. The winners will play a match against Abe Mitchell and George Duncan, noted British golfers, who will be touring Florida at the conclusion of play in the league.

NOTED FOOTBALL COACH, DEAD AT 49

Percy Haughton Dies Suddenly; Gained Fame as Harvard Coach

Builder of "Haughton System," Stricken at Columbia University Athletic Field Just Before Practice, Succumbs an Hour Later at Hospital of Acute Indigestion.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Percy D. Haughton, head coach of the Columbia football team, died suddenly at St. Luke's Hospital at 5:10 o'clock last evening of acute indigestion.

Death came with a dramatic touch almost at the moment he convinced the football world that he successfully could transplant the Columbia system he used when he put Harvard in the forefront of college football several years ago. Only last Saturday the Blue and White under his direction, fairly smothered Williams, the conqueror, thus, so Haughton died at the peak of his greatest triumph.

In his third season as head coach, he addressed the undergraduate body and made known the four points of his football creed.

"If Columbia is to compete with other colleges, he said, it is necessary that discipline is to prevail; that confidence must exist in the coaches that there must be cooperation between the coaches, players, students and graduates; that the do-or-die spirit from which comes the will to win must permeate every man in the university."

When relief did not come Dr. Haughton was urged to go to a hospital. Again he protested, but finally his assistants insisted and Dr. Whittington accompanied him to St. Luke's Hospital.

This game will probably decide the championship, because, if University City wins, they only have to defeat Ritenour before they close their county schedule, unbeaten. If Webster wins, it will give them an edge on the other county schools, as University City has won all its games except a tie game with Makenzie.

Cochrane Roberts reports that all his men are in fit condition, with the possible exception of Capt. Sibley, who has a bad shoulder. Either Howell or Hart can fill Sibley's place capably.

Barker, who plays at right guard between the veteran Bettman and the youngster "Bud" Nash, was chosen captain of the University City team. Coach Markley says that the University City ends are in good shape.

This is the way the players will line up when the whistle blows: University City, P. O. Webster, Jenkins, L. E., Barker, Lyke, L. T., Bowes, L. G., Wichmeyer, L. G., Howell, or Hart, Bettman, C. J., Strain, Woods, Nash, R. T., Slater, C., Bernudy, R. E., Gableman, Pelet, L. H., Lintzeneck, Stemmer, R. H., Fury, Sutton, F. B., Tyrrell.

MARKET

Wall Street
News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The stock market today went through a series of rather inconclusive variations. U. S. Steel common, above 180, was the feature in the last hour, and its strength served to offset realization sales in other parts of the list.

Rock Island was a leader among the rails, responding to the figures for September, which disclosed a gross gain of $1,225,000 over the previous month, and a surplus of $201,000 for the year.

The buying, however, has been influenced mainly, it was said, by the conviction that sooner or later the road will wind up as a unit in a new Southern Pacific system.

Atchison, which on Monday had answered the September statement with its jump from less than $44,000 to over $7,000,000 in net income, finally felt the effect.

The buying, which put the stock to 107, was inspired by the speculative reasoning that with such largely extended net revenues, an increase from 6 to 7 per cent in dividends was to be expected.

The pool in Maxwell made further headway, and Willys-Overland preferred was strong. Some buying was attracted to the Pierce-Arrow by the report for the September quarter, showing a balance available for the 8.05 per cent cumulative preferred of $1.05 per share for the first time this year.

The sensitive lay in the prospect of higher dividends. The copper stocks were particularly prominent.

The Coca-Cola report fulfilled expectations. Net income of $2,385,559 for the third quarter compared with $1,370,210 a year ago.

The Bond Market.

The bond market today presented some curious contrasts. The very highest grade of securities, such as governments and savings bonds, where the yield was less than 5 per cent, were inclined to sag.

Bonds returning from 5 to 5 1/2 per cent were in demand, the inquiry coming mainly from banks.

The demand for the latter grade of security apparently indicated banking belief in a long period of abundant capital.

At the same time these banks want at least 5 per cent. Atchison general is dropped back below 100, while Colorado &amp; Southern 4 1/2 made a new high for the year.

Speculative attention was again centered upon the rails.

Seaboard Air Line, adjustments were the leaders, advancing more than a point. "The street" looks forward confidently to some extra payment on account of the 12 1/2 per cent accumulations. M. K. &amp; T. adjustments were firm around 65.

And the St. Louis-San Francisco improved their ground. St. Paul made a little better response.

In the industrial group the feature was investment buying of American Smelting and Refining at new high prices, and the recovery in Warner Sugar Is., both important.

Foreign bonds were irregular, selling appeared in Brazil 8s, although no news was had at hand to account for it. French issues continued ready. The new German 7s were steady around the previous issue.

The following list of stock sales, the price paid and the net earnings per share, for the trading day's sales, increased.

Decrease...Unchanged.

COAST GUARD CHIEF ADMITS
SALE OF SEIZED CHAMPAGNE

Says Two Cases Were Sold to Get
Evidence—Rum Runners Charge
Cutter's Crew Sold 150 Cases.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Oct. 28.—Sale of two cases of champagne by a coast guard officer after a recent raid on the rum-smugglers off Cape Ann was admitted in a statement today by Lieutenant-Commander S. S. Yeandie, aid to the chief of the coast guard service, who has been here observing the activities of the prohibition enforcement fleet. Lieutenant-Commander Yeandie said the wine was sold to obtain evidence against the purchasers.

Charges that a prize crew placed by the coast guard cutter Tampa on board the British schooner Marjorie E. Bachman, one of the seized rum runners, sold 150 cases of champagne overboard to bootleggers, and robbed the schooner's crew of their pay before it reached Boston. A Federal commissioner last night when seven men captured in the Tampa's rum raid were arraigned.

Yeandie admitted today that two cases of champagne were sold. He declared that the rum-running interests, failing in attempts to place spies in the coast guard service, were attacking the character of coast guard officers in order to undermine public confidence in them.

"They are endeavoring to place spies in the service on sea and land," the statement said. "Only last week four men tried to enlist in the coast guard service, but when the time came to take their fingerprints they departed leaving their clothing behind. When spies succeeded in getting in they try to corrupt members of the organization."

Lieutenant-Commander Yeandie said that Ensign Connor who was in command of the prize crew on board the Bachman, was an officer of the highest character and record.

"To charge this man with crookedness is a dastardly outrage," he said.

EFFORT TO FOOL THE PEOPLE
TO BE EXPOSED ON NOV. 4'

Franklin D. Roosevelt Says Old
Guard Is Repeating Tactics That Failed for Taft in 1912.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, en route to New York from a visit in Georgia, issued a statement yesterday through the Democratic National Committee, declaring that "nation-wide organized effort to fool the country is going to be exposed on Nov. 4."

"Relying on the short memory of many voters," he said, "this clever confidence gang is repeating the plan of 1912. In that year the Old Guard directors gave out bushels of publicity to prove that Mr. Taft was to be elected hands down on the ground that Mr. Roosevelt would draw as heavily from Democratic as from Republican strength. Election day that year exposed the trick. Roosevelt drew the great bulk of his support from Republicans, just as La Follette is doing this year."

"An unexpectedly small Democratic vote will go to La Follette, and his undoubtedly large popular vote will come from normally Republican supporters. Davis has not only a hundred support but also that of hundreds of thousands of Progressives of the type that voted for Wilson in 1912. A week from Wednesday a lot of people are going to wake up and kick themselves for being so easily fooled."

TWO HURT WHEN HIT BY TRAIN
Pair Seriously Injured When Machine Drives on Tracks.

The St. Charles accommodation of the Washburn was backing to Mai street station at St. Charles at 6:45 o'clock last night and Marvin Bacon, 22, of 1126 North Second street, and Leonard Beilsmith, 21, of 2100 Clay street, St. Charles, were driving on North Second street. They did not see the approaching train and drove upon the track. The train struck their machine and wrecked it and both were seriously injured.

Beilsmith suffered lacerations about the head and face and was still unconscious this forenoon. Beilsmith was injured about the head and hips. An inquiry is being made to ascertain whether the usual precautions were taken by the crew in backing up.

TWENTY-SIX

THE boy had started out bravely enough in the heat of the day, sitting up very straight beside his mother, calling to the horses, shrieking and waving his arms at chickens that flew squawking across the road. Now he began to droop. Evening was coming on. A cool blanket of air from the lake on the east enveloped them with the suddenness characteristic of the region, and the mist began to drift across the prairie, softening the autumn stubble, cooling the dusty road, misting the parched willows by the roadside, hazing the shabby squat farmhouses.

She brushed away the crumbs, packed the remaining bread and meat thrifitly into the basket and covered it with a napkin against the boy's future hunger should he waken in the night.

"Sleepy, Sobj?"

"No. Should say not." His lids were heavy. His face and body relaxed, took on the soft baby contours that come with weariness. The sun was low. Sunset glorified the west in a final flare of orange and crimson. Dusk. The boy dropped against her heavy, sagging. She wrapped the old black fascinator about him. He opened his eyes, tugged at the wrapping about his shoulders. "Don't want the old thing . . . fascinator . . . like a girl . . ." drooped again with a sigh and found the soft curve where her side just cushioned his head. In the twilight the dust gleamed white on weeds, and brush, and grass. The far-off mellow sonance of a cow-bell. Horses' hoofs clopping up behind them, a wagon passing in a cloud of dust, a curious backward glance, or a greeting exchanged.

One of the Goms bays, or Jakob Boomsma. "You're never going to market, Miss DeJong!" staring with china-blue eyes at her load.

"Yes, I am, Mr. Boomsma."

That ain't work for a woman, Miss DeJong. You better stay home and let the men folks go."

Selina's men folks looked up at her—one with the asking eyes of a child, one with the true blue eyes of a dog. "My men folks are going. Why not? If I really do it, Dirk," answered Selina. But then, she had always thought her a little queer, so it didn't matter much.

She urged the horses on, refusing to confess to herself her dread of the destination which they were approaching. Light now, in the houses along the way, and those houses closer together. She wrapped the reins around the whip, and holding the sleeping boy with one hand reached beneath the seat with the other for the coat of sacking. This she placed around him snugly, folded an empty sack for a pillow, and lifting the boy in her arms laid him gently down on the lumpy bed formed by the bags of potatoes piled up just behind the seat in the back of the wagon. So the boy slept. Night had come on.

The figure of the woman dropped a little now as the old wagon creaked toward Chicago. A very small figure in the black dress and a shawl over her shoulders. She had taken off her old black felt hat. The breeze ruffled her hair that was fine and soft, and it made a little halo about the white face that gleamed almost luminously in the darkness as she turned it up toward the sky.

"I'll sleep out with Sobj in the wagon. It won't hurt either of us. It will be warm in town, there in the Haymarket. Twenty-five cents—maybe fifty for the two of us, in the rooming house. Fifty cents just to sleep. It takes hours of work in the fields to make fifty cents."

She was sleepy now. The night air was deliciously soft and sooth-ing. In her nostrils was the smell of the fields of grain, dew-wet, of damp dirt of cattle, a pure, pungent, prick of goosefoot, and occasionally a minted way that meant wild phlox in a near-by ditch. She sniffed all this gratefully, her mind and body curiously alert to sounds, scents, forms even, in the darkness. She had suffered much in the past week; had eaten and slept but little. Had known terror, bewilderment, agony, shock. Now she was relaxed, receptive, a little light-headed perhaps, what with under-feeding and tears and over-work. The racking process had cleared brain and bowels; had washed her spirit, purified her body, quickened her perceptions abnormally. Now she was like a delicate and sensitive electric instrument keyed to receive and register: vibrating to every ether wave.

She drove along in the dark, a dowdy farm woman in shapeless garments; just a bundle on the rickety seat of a decrepit truck wagon. The boy slept on his hard lumpy bed like the little vegetable that he was. The farm lights went out. The houses were blurs in the black. The lights of the city came nearer. She was thinking clearly, if disconnectedly, without bitterness, without reproach.

"My father was wrong. He said that life was a great adventure, a fine show. He said the more things that happen to you the richer you are, even if they're not pleasant things. That's living, he said. No matter what happens to

The $25 Stenographer of Today IS BETTER OFF THAN A Queen of the 17th Century

Possesses More Than Her Royal Forerunner
Ever Dreamed That the World Could Yield—By Comparison, the Great Lady of the Past Was a Virtual Slave.

No man of this generation has been more successful or distinguished in making the Past live again than Rafael Sabatini. His romances have moved with the wit and dash of Dumas, his soberer historical work has revealed a scholar's amplitude of research even to minute details. Sabatini, therefore, should know whereof he speaks. His judgment of the relative positions and advantages of the young self-supporting woman of today compared with the earth's exalted of three hundred years ago is exceedingly illuminating.

Sabatini was born at Jesi in central Italy in 1875, the son of Maestro Vincenzo and Anna Trafford Sabatini, an Italian father and an English mother. After a preliminary education in the land of his birth, during which he learned Italian, he attended the Ecole Nationale at Zong, Switzerland, where he learned the Swiss and French languages. His formal education was completed in the Lyceum of Oporto, Portugal, where he became proficient in Portuguese and Spanish.

It was not until he was 19 years old that Sabatini learned English, the mastery of which is shown in his writings. In 1905 he married Miss Ruth Dixon, and has since made his home in England. They have one son.

By RAFAEL SABATINI

INSTANT conditions are as distant landscapes, of which we perceive only the summits, bathed in sunshine. So, too, when through the medium of surviving chronicles and memoirs, we behold across the gap of centuries what we term "the good old days," we perceive only their superficial glitter in the high lights of momentary achievement.

We are too readily prone to imagine that all and every life conformed to the same brave pattern, and was lived, from start to finish, at the same exhilarating pace. We miss the cardinal fact that the records preserve for us—and these imperfectly—only the exceptional acts of exceptional men and women, and remain silent on the subject of the humdrum and commonplace, which in all epochs make up the main mass of any nation.

As it was then, so it is now. But with a difference so great that the average stenographer or girl-clerk today, earning her twenty-five, a week, is in a position infinitely more enviable than that of the great lady of any past age, down to and including the eighteenth century. For the self-supporting woman of today, who spends a third of her existence at work in an employer's office, is afforded the means of drinking far more deeply and freely of the wine of life than was ever within the reach of any "toast of the town," or lady of court or fashion of whom she may read with envy based upon insufficient knowledge.

The presentation to Queen Elizabeth of a pair of silk stockings—the first that ever she possessed—is so important an event in her domestic history that a full account of this transaction is to be found in Stowe. A century or so later silk stockings were a commonplace in the wardrobe of a great lady. To-day they are a commonplace in the wardrobe of every self-supporting girl.

It is not pretended by this that the self-supporting girl today is better dressed than a queen whose wardrobe at the date of her death contained upwards of three thousand gowns. Nor is it pretended that a silk stocking is in itself of paramount importance as a factor of human happiness.

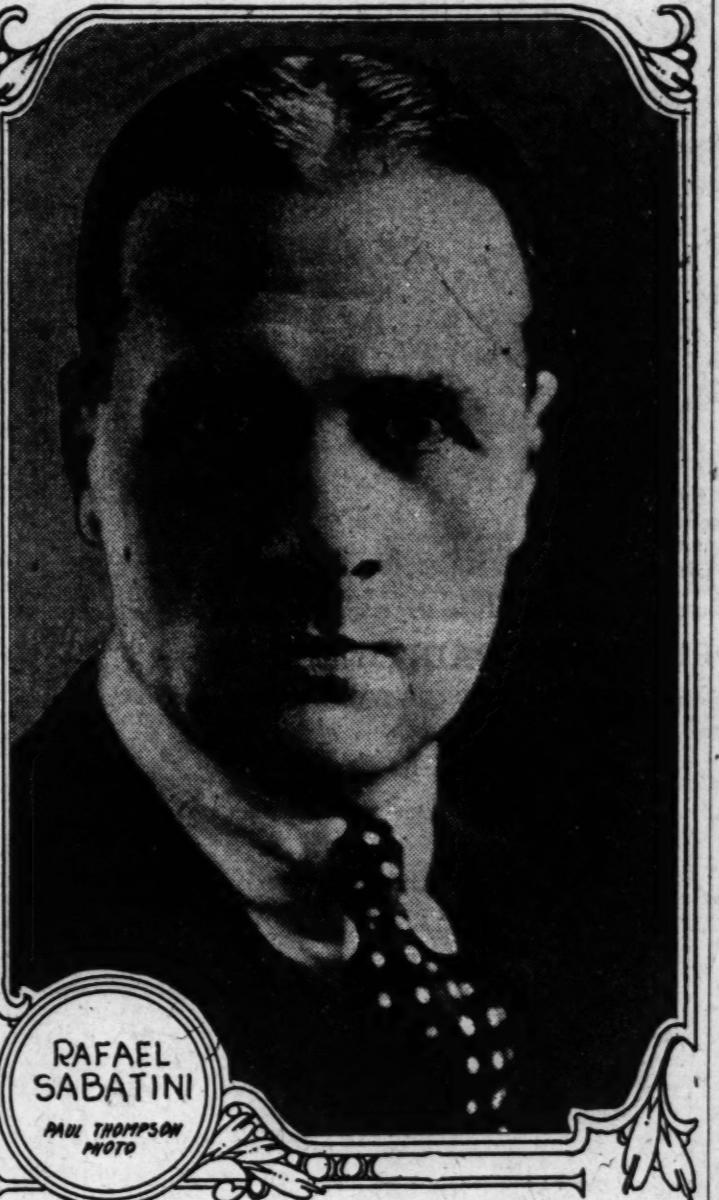

They have been surrounded by a pomp and circumstance which renders them impossibly spectacular. And so that the illusion may hold, they have been invested with an authority which 300 years ago included what was vainly termed "the power of life and death." But underneath all this awe-inspiring and rather theatrical parade, we find a human being whose capacity for enjoyment of the realization of life is delimited by the civilization of his own day, and who is subject to all those ills and discontents which afflict the meaneest of his subjects.

The Tragedy Beneath the Purple. Thus, you see Elizabeth, her bust gaudily jeweled, her yellow hair powdered with pearls of great price, clad in a stupendous brocade that is all patterned with eyes and ears, to symbolise her omniscience. You behold her flanked by stalwart, scarlet-clad women-of-the-guard with rigidly ordered halberds and attended by a cloud of shimmering couriers, enthroned in state to receive the great Gondomar, that proud ambassador of the proud King of Spain.

Looking on from afar, you behold a dazzling spectacle of life as it was lived by the mighty in those spacious days, and you sigh for these departed splendors.

But draw a little nearer, so as to obtain a closer view of details, and you perceive at once that if the magnificent grandes de Spain, representative of the all-powerful King Philip, and a man still in the prime of life, is borne into her majesty's presence in a chair, this is not in consequence of any privilege to which he is entitled by virtue of his exalted rank, but because of the debilitating infirmity by which he is afflicted and from which the rudimentary surgery of his day can afford him no relief.

An old, gaunt, gaunter Queen, who, in receiving him, makes elaborate play with her jeweled fan does so in reality for the purpose of concealing from the Ambassador gaze the ruin of slackened, broken teeth which already, at the age of forty, disfigures the royal mouth. It is not necessary to look closer, or to seek further evidence of the physical disadvantages under which even in the highest places humanity then labored, through a brief and fleeting youth to a miserable old age that was commonly reached by the tenth year.

SABATINIMUI THOMPSON

Today the lives of men and women of today are in their physical prime and just completing the education that will enable them appreciatively to savor existence. From that glimpse alone all the other infirmities of which a Queen must have been a prey will at once be inferred.

And almost any stenographer today who has reached the age of forty, with her well-kept teeth, her digestion unimpaired and her limbs vigorous and elastic from hygienic conditions and healthy pursuits and games in which the great lady of the past could have no part, will realize at once and in thankfulness her own physical superiority. Remembering that a sound mind demands a sound body for its subsistence, she will perceive something, too, of the spiritual superiority that must necessarily be hers.

And almost any stenographer is quite possible to be in cotton stockings, or in the cloth stockings Elizabeth wore before she was initiated into the use of silk ones. It is even possible to be happy without stockings at all. If this article of feminine wear has been dragged into the argument, it is purely for symbolic purposes; that it may serve as a symbol of all those refinements which, common to any stenographer to-day, were unusual in the life of women-of-the-guard with rigidly ordered halberds and attended by a cloud of shimmering couriers, enthroned in state to receive the great Gondomar, that proud ambassador of the proud King of Spain.

So that, when all is said, the comparison is not so ludicrous as might at first appear. It is certainly far less ludicrous than would be a comparison between the self-supporting woman of today and her counterpart in the social scale of any date down to the nineteenth century, namely the daughter of the mechanic, the artisan, the craftsman, the small trader or the farmer.

There, indeed, no comparison is possible.

The self-supporting girl of today not only reflects in her own person the refinements of modern civilization, but, complete mistress of her fate, she may and frequently does command a place superior to that from which she is sprung, passing upwards with the full justified consciousness that she is mentally and physically qualified for that measure of social advancement.

An Intellectual Twilight. Her counterpart 200 years ago had been living in surroundings that can only be described as squalid, and was denied by all the conditions of her time and her rearing the possibility of emerging from them. Courteously clad, her very garments a library of servility, bare-faced and roughly shod, if she

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Keep in the Juice.

When roasting a piece of meat, it should be cooked quickly at first to sear the outside enough to hold in the juices. Then the temperature of the oven may be lowered to prevent burning.

Less Fatigue Than More.

When cake baking, don't think a larger lump of butter will make the cake better. Too much butter will absolutely spoil a cake and many of the best cakes you have eaten have no butter at all in them.

Buy the Best.

If you don't want to pay the price of absolutely fresh and whole fruits for preserving purposes, don't do them up at all. You will only waste the difference in money by a few jars "going bad" and none of your fruit will be as good as it should be.

No Place to Put It.

So many of us have white enameled kitchen tables and we avoid using the meat grinder merely through having no place to attach it. Put a small wad of paper between the grinder and the table and tighten the screws on the paper instead of the slippery table. You will find it secure and safe.

Children's Bedtime Story

Farmer Brown's Boy Blames Himself

A little, thoughtless, careless deed
To sad results will often lead.

Farmer Brown's Boy.

A SOON as Farmer Brown's boy saw the little can fastened to one of Bobby Coon's fore-paws he understood exactly what had happened. He knew all about Bobby Coon's fondness for bright, shiny things. He guessed right away that Bobby had found that little can and had thrust his paw into it to see if there was anything in there. Then somehow the paw had been caught in it and Bobby had been unable to get rid of that can.

Farmer Brown's boy talked gently and soothingly to Bobby Coon. He told him how sorry he was. "It was all my fault," said Farmer Brown's boy. "I dropped that can in the Laughing Brook. I had it to carry worms in when I was fishing. When I was through fishing I dropped that can in the water. I didn't dream that it could possibly hurt anyone. So I am to blame, Bobby, for all the fright and pain you have suffered. And the least I can do is to get you out of this trouble I got you into. My, I certainly am glad Bowser and I came this way this morning!"

As he talked in a low, soothing voice he kept slowly drawing nearer and nearer to Bobby Coon. He made no quick movements. Finally he knelt down close to Bobby and there he remained for some little time without trying to touch Bobby. All the time he kept talking to him gently. He watched Bobby's eyes. He saw the savage, fighting look fade away. He saw distrust gradually grow less and less. He knew that Bobby Coon was beginning to understand that he had nothing to fear. He didn't touch Bobby, but just talked to you up in my coat so that you can't bite and then take you up to the house."

So Farmer Brown's boy gently threw his coat over Bobby Coon's head and then wrapped him up in such a way that Bobby couldn't bite or struggle. All the time he did his best not to hurt that injured leg. Then he picked Bobby up, and with Bowser the hound at his heels started for home. Peter Rabbit, watching wide-eyed from the end of a hollow log, saw them go. Peter's curiosity was satisfied. He knew now who it was who had growled at him under the pile of brush. He knew that Bobby Coon was in trouble, but what the trouble was Peter didn't know. And so Peter was glad as he saw Farmer Brown's boy taking Bobby Coon away, for Peter knew that Bobby was in the hands of a friend.

A Bit of Economy

ONE woman who failed to get a satisfactory rubber crib sheet for the money she desired to pay decided to experiment on protective sheeting. She purchased a piece of unbleached cloth the required size and one quart of alum oil. She spread the oil over the sides of the cloth and hung it out to dry. Then, perfectly dry, she gathered another cloth of the oil, and when thoroughly dry the sheet was ready for use. The cost was about half what she formerly paid for a rubber sheet and it lasted more than twice as long.

He slowly put out a hand toward Bobby Coon. Bobby growled and the look of fear leaped up in his eyes again. Farmer Brown's boy shook his head sorrowfully. "I thought it would be this way," said he. "I don't blame you a bit. You can't understand what has happened to you, and of course you can't understand what I want to do for you. I guess there is nothing for it but for me to wrap

NEW YORK.—One of the swankiest little Bengaline frocks in black which among the tailored vogue has a rather high neck and long sleeves. It is trimmed with little Greek pattern borders of red leather at cuffs and neck.

WHERE RAILWAY TRAINS WAIT FOR PASSENGERS

In most parts of the civilised world time means everything. The steamers, airplanes, railroad trains and other public conveyances all travel on schedule time.

But in the beautiful Italian town of Lago di Garda, which connects the village of Mori with the Lake of Garda, timetables are useless.

In our country things are different. Here the railroads run on schedule time, and if a belated passenger arrives a second after the gates are shut he misses his train and will have to wait perhaps a few hours for the next one.

THE MOVIE QUEEN.

I T is a movie actress, She stoppeth one of three That about the silver screen And stars we pay to see; For she is wedded to her art And absolutely looks the part.

She says it takes a lot of brains To be a movie star And leap from swiftly moving trains, Or from a motor car. But, while she dearly loves the work, She has to labor like a Turk.

Each day a hundred photographs To movie fans she sends; Her secretary autographs And mails them to her friends. And that is why the famous vamp Is threatened with the writers' cramp.

She's fond of a domestic life Surrounded by her books; And like a true and faithful wife She sews and dusts and cooks. And every now and then, of course, She gets herself a fresh divorce.

TOO TRUE.

TWO actors sat on the sea sands at Long Beach watching the bathers. There was one among the latter who won their admiration by his expertise.

This person looked like an Italian. He was middle-aged and corpulent but for all that he excelled all others in sight. He dived beautifully and swam like a swan. But where he particularly shone was at treading water. Holding his head and shoulders above the surface he literally walked back and forth through the surf.

"Wonder, isn't he?" stated the first spectator.

"It doesn't surprise me," said the second. "He's only doing what you'd expect him to do. He used to be a letter-carrier in Venice."

Executive Announced Sale of Insurance Shares in 1921 When Brother Was Named Superintendent.

RETAINED THEM
AS COLLATERAL

Received $6000 in Cash in Merger Deal, a Higher Price Than Paid
Other Stockholders.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 23.—One of the recent absorptions of Liberty National Life Insurance Co. of Cape Girardeau by the Mountain States Life Insurance Co., Denver, added another interesting chapter to the story of "Insurance Politics in Missouri," which from time to time has been published in the Post-Dispatch as its various phases have developed.

The latest chapter revolves around an insurance company which required the approval of Ben C. Hyde State Insurance Superintendent and brother of Governor Hyde. The deal has been a period of 18 days without final approval. Then it was appealed immediately after 250 shares of Liberty National stock owned by the Governor had been purchased by the Denver company at a price in excess of three times the price paid for other Liberty National stock acquired.

Received $6000 in Cash.

The Governor received $6000 in cash for his stock, or $25 a share. His stockholders received two shares of Mountain States stock, a valuation of approximately $10 each $10 share of Liberty stock they owned.

An interesting detail of the transaction is that the 250 shares Hyde stock involved represented the Governor's total insurance holdings in 1921 when he appointed his brother State Superintendent of Insurance and announced he had sold the stock, noting that he did not consider it wise to hold such stock when he had the power of appointing the Superintendent.

In an interview with the Governor by a representative of the Post-Dispatch, there developed the sale of the Governor's stock in 1921 was not of particular interest to the Governor. He received only a note for the full purchase price. No money changed hands and the stock, being up as usual to protect the note, remained in the Governor's control until the proposed merger was before Sept. Hyde for approval.

Governor's Explanation.

The Governor, asked for an explanation of his transaction in Liberty National stock, gave the following: "About 1918 when I was in the Liberty Loan campaign I visited Cape Girardeau and there was handled by Harry Albert in Liberty National stock. I bought 250 shares, paying $5000 in cash for it. When I was elected Governor I decided I did not want to be the owner of an insurance company and sold it to Albert and asked Albert to take it on his hands. It was sold to John Meyers of Cape Girardeau, an officer of the Liberty National. I gave Meyers' note for $5000 for the cash padding in the transaction. Nothing ever was paid on principal and no interest ever paid on the note. Of course, the stock was put up as collateral. Received Cash, Not Stock."

When this merger came up I offered my stock in the Mountain States for my 250 shares. I wanted not stock.

I placed the note and stock in the hands of Walter Chorn, a Kansas City attorney, for collection. I had no knowledge of how Chorn would handle the collection. I know I received Chorn's check for $6000 on the note, and of course the collection went along with it."

The Governor said he had no knowledge of any delay in the merger of the two companies until his stock was taken over. He said he turned the note and collection over to an attorney for collection and had no part in the matter.

He who represented the Governor is an office associate of Mr. Howell, head of the reorganized insurance interests in Missouri, who has figured in several of the Insurance and Political contests. At the time of Ben's appointment he was credited with having had a considerable hand in the negotiations which led
